WALKS AND TALKS

IN AND AROUND THE CITY.

The Story of an Intelligent Compositor's Scheme for a Week's Board—Our Street Car Facilities—A Valuable Piece of Land—Judge Hopkins's Heifers.

The article of Mr. Edward Atkinson, in the late International Review, has justly produced much indignation among our people.

The article, while doubtless honest in its suggestions of peace and reconciliation, is pitched on the wrong key, is false in its estimates, and contains much matter that is gratuitous, not to say slanderous. Mr. Atkinson falls into the habit of the Pharisee, who in confessing to some good in his neighbor, insists on denouncing his past and doubting his future. Why is it necessary that in treating the new problems that the south must work out and that he acknowledges she is working out with admirable frankness and courage, he must burden his article with false and unnecessary allusions to the old south? Does he think that the way a brave man makes friends and seeks a reconciliation is to come up and say: "Your father, sir, was a brute and a scoundrel and you are possibly no better; but I suppose I'd better shake hands with you."

We are glad to learn that Dr. W. E. Boggs, of the Central Presbyterian church, in this city, is preparing a reply to Mr. Atkinson's article, and that it will appear in the next Review. He wrote, in effect, to the editors that Mr. Atkinson had slandered a whole section and a district of civilization, and claimed the right of replying. The right was yielded and the answer will appear.

—Mr. Julius Brown has an admirable book of autographs, containing the signatures of nearly every famous actor and actress in this country. The sentences accompanying the autographs are characteristic. Sarah Bernhardt heads her name with, "What a good place in which to write nothing," in pure French. Salvini prefaces his autograph with: "I desire to record my entire satisfaction with my reception in Atlanta. Lotta simply writes her name in a bold hand across the page. Katie Putnam writes: "I'm s' glad you come," quoting from the Marchioness. Tom Keene quotes: 'In the bright lexicon of youth, etc." Mary Anderson, in a strangely masculine hand, writes: "It is the soul that makes the man." Rose Etynge writes the quatrain from Led Astray beginning "There's a life without which life my life is incomplete," etc. Fanny Davenport writes, surely not from the experience of so lively and successful an actress as herself, "How many briers there are in this working-day world!" Pretty Henrietta Vaders writes, "There's rosemary—that's for remembrance." Lawrence Barrett writes only his name, but takes a whole page on which to do this, as if he had carved it out with the dagger that he plays Cassius with. Rudolph Strong writes, "There is a thing all men expect but that seems ever afar, and it is death." Stuart Robson, in a cramped hand, inquires, "Am I not a beauty?" and B. Maccauley spreads his name over a page in a good humored hand. Agnes Herndon in a very uncertain hand, writes something about Heaven, and Cyril Searle quotes from "Drink:" "What blessing is there that a workingman can have to be compared to a good wife?" A column might be filled from this little book, which has one of the most interesting collections I ever saw.

—At the meeting held for the purpose of arranging for the entertainment of the members of the educational convention to be held here this summer, Mr. W. B. Bonnell, principal of Ivy street school, made a curious statement. He said that he agreed to take two members of the last International Sunday school convention and two were assigned to him. He was pleased with the gentlemen sent him and especially with one who represented himself as a school superintendent of Ohio. He conversed intelligently, and was "up" on every matter that was broached.

"I was very much astonished," Mr. Bonnell went on to say, "when sometime afterwards I discovered that my guest was not a school teacher, and had never been to Ohio, but was a printer at work in one of the city printing offices, and living in Atlanta."

Inquiry develops the fact that the Georgian in question was a printer and that the boys of the office in which he worked proposed that he should take a week's rest and attend the convention. He humored the joke, was fixed up in good style, took his knapsack, went down and registered from Ohio and was assigned to Mr. Bonnell's house, where he was handsomely entertained as long as the convention lasted and pressed to call again if he should ever happen to be in Atlanta. As to his acquaintance with the subjects discussed in the convention, we wish to remark that what a printer who has worked on a daily paper doesn't know about any subject, from science to slang, isn't worth looking after.

—The building up of the Shanty corner, on Marietta and Peachtree streets, now occupied by cigar stores and fruit stands, will remove the last scar of the war in the centre of Atlanta. It is easy to remember when these hastily built corners disfigured the whole city, and we note with pride the wiping out of the last vestige of the post-bellum architecture of clap-boards and shingles. Mr. Charley Beermann will build up the entire corner according to plans designed by Mr. Leo, in handsome stores. The value of central business property is shown in the fact that the ground rent for this corner is $3,500 per annum, and the owners of the ground take the buildings at the end of five years by paying 50 per cent of the cost of building.

—Mr. Peters is improving the street car facilities on Peachtree by extending the line beyond the city limits and putting a dummy engine and T rails on the Ponce de Leon route. This would seem to be a necessary improvement as the march of hotels, stores, schools and boarding houses on upper Peachtree will probably force the residence portion further out. The Merriam lot has been purchased for $10,000, and a handsome female college under charge of Mrs. Ballard will be erected this summer. It is said that the Colliers will build a fine hotel on the lot belonging to Mr. Wash Collier next to the residence of Mr. Henry Banks.

Speaking of Atlanta real estate, Mr. Peters said on yesterday: "Good building lots are getting very scarce in this city. If $150,000 in cash were put into real estate in Atlanta in the next month it would raise the price of unimproved lots 30 per cent, for it would take up nearly every available piece!"

Mr. Peters has a lot of 400 acres of land, for which he gave originally $1,700, and of which he has sold 60 acres at an average of $1,000 an acre. He has now withdrawn it from the market, and could get more than $1,000 an acre for a large portion of the balance of it. If he sells the whole lot at this average, which he will unquestionably do if he holds a few years longer, the $1,700 will bring him in $400,000, while the wood he has cut off it has paid taxes and interest.

—Why does not Mr. J. C. Kimball put a line of sprinklers on the residence streets? We have a letter before us from a Peachtree man, in which he says that enough money can be raised on that street to maintain the sprinklers clear to the city line. Peachtree is a great drive, and in a short time the dust will become intolerable unless something is done to check it. I hear that we are to have the Herdic coaches that have proved so popular in Washington and that are now about being introduced into several southern cities. These coaches are the substitutes of street cars, and ply streets in which there are no street car lines, at frequent intervals, charging 5 cent fees and carrying eight persons each trip. If the Herdics are established, and Mr Kimball will extend his sprinkler service on to residence streets we shall have then all that we need in the way of comfort and convenience.

—The verdict gained by Hoke Smith, Esq., for Henry C. Tanner against the Air-Line railroad $14,400 is the largest ever given in Fulton county for damages, and yet seems to have been entirely just, and certainly gives general satisfaction.

The highest verdict ever obtained for damages from a railroad in the state, I believe was given to Col. Jas. D. Waddell, of Cobb county, and was about $30,000. This was compromised by Col Waddell taking about half of the sum awarded. So that if Mr. Smith collects the full amount of his verdict, as he doubtless will, he will come very near having had the biggest damages ever had in the state. Dr. Boring got, it is said, in a suit in which his leg was not lost, but merely injured, a $10,000 verdict.

—Edgewood is in its glory just now with the green flush of spring mantling it. It is one of the most delightful suburbs about Atlanta, and there is no more refreshing sight in it than Judge Hopkins's clover lawn with its shady swaths and its matchless herd of Jerseys. Driving by them yesterday, a friend said:

"They are very pretty, but they are a very expensive luxury that must cut very heavily into the judge's income. A poor man cannot afford to keep Jerseys."

"On the contrary," said another, "they are the best investments that the judge ever made, and would be a good investment for any man no matter how poor he was if he was only able to buy. I know that Mrs. Hopkins from the milk and butter from this herd, of which she is a capital and enthusiastic manager, pays the expenses of the cows, the herdsmen and of the entire Hopkins establishment. Not one cent does she draw from an outside source to keep up the house. Besides this Judge Hopkins can sell every calf that is dropped for $100, and from ten cows he ought to be able to sell five calves annually, besides keeping up his herd and even increasing it. In addition to this is the great pleasure that the beautiful cows give, and the ornament they are to the place."

"A very important lesson for our people to learn, and one that Judge Hopkins's experiment will help to teach, is that it costs no more to keep a good cow than a poor one, and that from the first you get twice the income, and find her calv [illegible] of ten times the value of scrub calves. I [illegible] a good thing for F [illegible] when we see [illegible] ow either grad [illegible] iven out. [illegible]"

Mrs. Wade who has charge of Mr. E. C. Wade's herd of Jerseys, sells to Cleaton & Johnston alone $1,400 worth of Jersey butter annually, and has other customers beside. Cleaton & Johnston report that they could sell five times as much Jersey butter as they get now.

Mr. Scoville, the proprietor of the Kimball house, has purchased a splendid farm in Edgewood, on which he will establish a dairy and truck patches. It is a capital grass farm, and he will stock it with fine cows and put it in the hands of an experienced dairyman. He will thus be assured of a plentiful supply of the freshest milk and butter of the best quality for his house, and eventually of a supply of vegetables and fruit. He is preparing to meet not only the demands of the present overwhelming travel but of the rush of the exposition.

The situation will never be just what it ought to be until Mr. Scoville has charge of a first-class family hotel built away from the heart of the city, and runs it in connection with the Kimball. This course will add to the value of the Kimball, and will give Atlanta and Mr. Scoville what they need now, and will need very much more as the city grows.

—A party of gentlemen were discussing Atlanta's hospitality the other day, and one of them said that although he had been visiting Atlanta regularly several times a year for the past ten years that he had never been invited inside of an Atlanta residence. In this statement two of the gentlement present concurred, and the other measurably so, and they were all prominent men.

While the statement is true we feel sure that it does not fairly represent the average of Atlanta hospitality. It is true that our people are busy, driving merchants or professionals—working tirelessly to establish themselves or their business, and with little of the ornamented wealth that characterizes older cities, or of the leisurely methods that justifies the opening of business at 10 and the closing at 3 o'clock. An Atlanta man's business hours extend from 8 till 8 as an average, with unfrequent intermissions for dinner, and this applies to the larger merchants as well as the smaller ones. While, therefore, the hospitable instinct is strong in Atlanta character, and there are hundreds of beautiful homes to which the stranger is welcome, there is little opportunity for indulging in entertaining. It is a luxury that the restless business scramble incident upon establishing a new business in a new city has heretofore denied our people the enjoyment of. As methods become easier and the struggle for success less strenuous, there will be less and less ground for citicism on Atlanta's hospitality.

—It is said that Mr. Ferdinand Phinizy sold 900 shares of West Point stock at 160, this being the number necessary to give control of the road to the parties who leased the Georgia.

—Mr. Louis Gholstin has, it is said, made a bid for the handsome residence of Judge Woods on Peachtree street.

—Mr. Hugh Inman has bought four acres of land from Mr. Peters on old Peachtree, paying $1,000 per acre.

DORSEY DESIRES

To be Set Right in the Eyes of a Disgusted Public.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The following letter is furnished for publication:

Washington, April 30.—To Hon. Thomas L. James, postmaster general. Sir: You do not need to be informed that for many days past that the newspaper press of the country has teemed with telegraphic dispatches from Washington, charging frauds in the postoffice department, and that in them I have been made a conspicuous mark for the shafts of the assailants. The authors of the sensation profess to speak in all of this, of matters discovered in the department since your entry there If any charge that has been made against me is true, those who made it should be able to produce some evidence to sustain it. It is upon this point that I address you this letter. I make no complaint that you have not up to this time deemed it proper to deny the published statements which make the charges alluded to appear as if they were the result of an investigation by you, but I claim as a right that with me and whoever I may bring to you, you make such investigation as to every contract with which my name has been connected as will enable you to give me in writing the true status of each case I have to ask that this request be granted at once in order that I may not rest under injurious and unjust imputations nor be unnecessarily detained from other business to defend my reputation against base and unfounded assaults. Very respectfully,

(Signed,) "S. W. DORSEY."

A FEDERAL DECISION

In Which the Negro Question Upsets a Judicial Finding.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—A decision was rendered by the supreme court of the United States to-day in the case of William Neal against the state of Delaware in error from the court of oyer and terminer for Newcastle county. Neal, who is a negro, was indicted, tried and sentenced to death by the state court for the crime of rape. His appeal to this court is based upon the fact that the state court refused to grant the motion made by him that the indictment and panel of jurors be quashed for the reason that colored men were excluded from the grand and petit juries, by which he was indicted and tried. This court holds that the exclusion of colored persons from juries, which is complained of in this case, did not, as a matter of law, result from the constitution and laws of the state. The case, therefore, could not have been properly removed to the federal courts. Since, however, there was an improper exclusion of the colored men on account of race from juries by which Neal was indicted and tried, the state court erred in refusing to grant the motion of accused to quash the indictment and panels of jurors. Its judgment is therefore reversed with costs, and the case remanded, with directions to set aside the judgment and verdict, as well as the order denying the motion to quash the indictment and panels of jurors, and for such proceedings upon the further bearings of those motions as may be consistent with the principles of the opinion of this court. Justice Harlan delivered the opinion, Chief Justice Waite and Justice Field dissenting.

The One Hundredth Anniversary.

NEW YORK, May 2.—A mass meeting was held last night in Madison square for the purpose of furthering the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis, to be held in Yorktown, Virginia, October 18th next. The square was illuminated with electric light and a magnificent display of fireworks made. About 15,000 persons attended the meeting, which was enthusiastic. One Frederick R. Condert was chairman, and he with Governor Holiday and Hon. John Goode, of Virginia, Professor Chartier, John Austin Stevens, Judge Woodbridge, of Vermont, and Judge Joseph Christian, of Virginia, delivered the speeches of the evening. Garde Lafayette sixty strong, surrounded the platform during the meeting.

At the close of the meeting an adjourned meeting of the association was held—Hon. John Goode presiding Ex-Governor Bedle, of New Jersey, reported that the committee had decided to commence festivities on October 18th and to continue them on the 19th and perhaps longer. The committee did not decide as to what the nature of the opening ceremonies would be. The report was adopted and the meeting adjourned sine die.

The Egyptian Cotton Crop.

CAIRO, May 2.—The cotton crop in the province of Behera, lower Egypt, is seriously endangered, the new pumping machinery not having answered the anticipations, and the dredging of the canal having been neglected. Four thousand enforced laborers are now working in the canal.

FOREIGN FLASHES.

THE Marquis Charles Jean Marie Felix De Lavalette is dead.

ALI BEY, the Tunisian commander, has removed the Tunisian camp south of Beja.

THE Standard's Tunis correspondent reports that four French ironclads took possession of Bisertoon Sunday.

THE bey of Tunis has telegraphed to the porte that he will refer the French or any other government making proposals to him to the porte.

THE fanatical populace of Elizabetgrad in Kherson, in a recent riot, pillaged several houses belonging to Jews. One Jew was killed and several other persons were injured by the rioters. An investigation is in progress.

M. ROUSTAN, the French consul general, has received a telegram from the governor of Algeria announcing that the French have occupied Kroumir hill camp. The Kroumir are now practically surrounded.

THE Agence Russe denies the statement that the government sought to extend the action of the proposed conference on regicede to the adoption of steps for suppression of the revolutionary propaganda in general, and adds that Russian representations have been confined to subject of attempts at assassination.

THE recent reports from Tunis that the principals of the Arab theological institute had resolved to unfurl the standard of the prophet and proclaim holy war against the infidels, is now confirmed, the bey's police having discovered an indication of the plot and made several arrests. The domiciliary visits resulted in a large quantity of bullets and powder being discovered.

A DISPATCH from General Logerat, dated Sonk El Arba, April 30th, says a light column sent to reassure one of the tribes was fired at by two other tribes and by the Khoumir, but the enemy were defeated with a loss of 400 men. The bey has written to M. Roustan, French minister, declaring that despite the entry of the French into the Tunisian territory, the high esteem in which he has always held France is unaltered.

A REUTER'S St. Petersburg dispatch mentions as probably the appointments foreshadowed by special correspondents on April 27, as follows: General Melikoff to be prime minister, General Ignatieff succeeding him as minister of the interior; Prince Lobanoff to be minister of foreign affairs, after Prince Gortschakoff's jubilee; Herr Von Siero to be ambassador at Berlin and Herr Von Sabouroff to be transferred from Berlin to London. The same dispatch says General Kaufman is better, but he has not yet recovered his voice, and one side of his body remains parlysed.

IT is officially declared that the published accounts of the Albanian resistance to Dervisch Pasha were greatly exaggerated, that perfect tranquillity now prevails and that Dervisch Pasha does not intend to go to Gusinje to chastise Ali Pasha, who is recognized as a faithful servant of the sultan. Also that Dervish Pasha has attached the chiefs captured at Prisrend to his suite in order to conciliate the Albanians. He is about to advance on Ipek and Jakova, where the same bands continue to revolt

A BOY named Farrell was shot and dangerously wounded in Dublin to-day for giving information which led to the discovery of arms in the house where he was employed. The man who did the shooting has been arrested. The crime is supposed to be the work of Fenians. An extraordinary edition of the Gazette declares that the city of Dublin has been proclaimed under the arms act. It is stated that John Dillon, home rule member of parliament for Tipperary, will be arrested.

ANOTHER WEEK

TO BE DEVOTED TO RIDDLEBERGER.

How the Senatorial Cabal Arrogated to Itself the Appointing Power, and Pushed Republican Presidents Out of the Way—The Senatorial Debate Re-Opened.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—So much has been said on the subject of senatorial courtesy in connection with the recent nomination of Mr. Robertson for collector of the port of New York that it may be of interest to recall the origin and trace the growth of the system through which senators have been to a large degree enabled to usurp or control the power of appointments to office, lodged by the constitution in the hands of the executive. It was in the days of Andrew Johnson that the senate commenced to arrogate to itself powers and privileges which, prior to that period, no member of that body ever dreamed of being so bold as to lay claim to the possession of. The senate went a long way ahead of the house in originating measures trenching upon the barriers of the constitution and emboldened by success, in this, and encouraged by the bitter partisan feeling pervading the country, that body invaded first one and then the other of the prerogatives of the president, so that finally he was rendered completely powerless and no nomination that he made had any chance of confirmation unless through previous understanding with the senators representing the state in which the office was located. Of the senatorial cabal which then dominated at the white house and the capitol Senators Conkling and Edmunds were among the most prominent. When General Grant came into power, the senatorial cabal, although he was the president of their own choice, refused to remove the hedge (the tenure-of-office law) with which they had environed his predecessor. General Grant never cared to make any fuss about it, for all that he had at heart was to stow away in comfortable places a few of his cronies. The cabal made no objection to this, for in return General Grant turned over to them practically the control of their local offices. For eight years no man could hope to attain federal position in New York unless he was a friend or retainer of Mr. Conkling. So with respect to Senator Chandler in Michigan, Senator Edmunds in his section, Simon Cameron in Pennsylvania, and others who might be named in their states. When Mr. Hayes came into office he did not exactly appreciate the condition in which he found affairs. He thought the president ought to have something to say on the subject of appointments in fact as well as in name. He commenced to send in nominations without first obtaining the permission of the members of the senatorial cabal. They had usurped for so long the powers of the president that they had come to the conclusion they had the inherent right to do so. They were astounded and indignant at the presumption of Mr. Hayes, and it was determined that he must be brought to reason through the defeat of his nominations. The war waged against President Hayes on this account by Mr. Conkling and his colleagues of the cabal during the whole period of his administration is too recent to need any detailed rehearsing. The spectacle was presented over and over again of a powerful element of his own party denying and opposing the constitutional rights of a republican president, and many times those rights were only enforced through the aid of the democratic opposition. Victorious at times, defeated at other times, the cabal stubbornly held to its position during the whole term of Hayes's administration. When the Garfield administration came into power it, or certain members of it, put forth the same claims and pretensions to the control of appointments. But Mr. Garfield, like Mr. Hayes, concluded to exercise a little free agency. The result is that the cabal has opened its batteries on him, and we may expect a renewal of the four years' war on the Hayes administration

—The total amount of six per cents received at the treasury department to date, for continuance at 3½ per cent interest, is fifty two millions, five hundred and seventy-five dollars,

—The Georgia republican association met at No. 611 Seventh street northwest last night for the purpose of effecting a permanent organization, R. D. Locke, temporary chairman, presiding, and M. H. McWhorter officiating as acting secretary. The committee on constitution and bylaws reported, and the constitution was considered by articles, the first and second of which were adopted, and the latter amended so as to permit all Georgia republicans who are in business in the district of Columbia to be eligible for membership. Some general discussion followed, after which, in view of the fact that a larger attendance was expected at the next meeting, and that some misapprehension existed as to the place of meeting last night, an adjournment was had until next Thursday, May 5, for which the same rooms have been secured.

—It is announced that James B. Campbell will take the field in the second congressional district of South Carolina as an administration democrat, under the call of the governor of the state, for a special election to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of the late Hon. M. P. O'Connor. The likelihood is that he will be elected. If he is, it will somewhat complicate the contest which E. W. M. Mackay is making for that seat. Mackey will, of course, not enter the field against Campbell, as if he should be defeated his right to contest the seat under the former election would not be recognized. This contest promises to be one of the most complicated and interesting ever brought before the house of representatives.

—The committee appointed by the republican caucus last week to prepare a plan of action in regard to the contemplated holding of an executive session, reached an agreement to-day. The committee will recommend to the caucus to-morrow morning that an excutive session be held forthwith for the transaction of business in the following order: First, to refer to the appropriate committees all nominations now on the table. Second, to take up for final action the various treaties which now await ratification and next to consider all uncontested nominations already reported or that may hereafter be reported from the senate committees. The report will not take ground that no other nominations should be considered during the present session, but that the programme of business for the present should be restricted in this manner. The report, if adopted by the caucus, will probably result in the holding of an executive session to-morrow afternoon.

—The treasury department to-day made its first official announcement of the amount of six per cent bonds which have been received for continuance at 3½ per cent interest, in accordance with the new policy. To the close of treasury hours this evening there had been received $47,193,850. The greatest amount received in any one day was to-day, which was $8,477,750. These forty-seven millions do not include any bonds held by national banks. The treasury now holds a great many millions which have been received for continuance, but does not include them in this statement for the reason that there has been some misunderstanding by the bank officials to the form of assignment, and many of the bonds will have to be sent back to secure a corrected and legal assignment. Comptroller Knox says, however, that there is no doubt that all the six per cents held by the national banks will be continued at 3½ per cent.

One of the treasury officials in charge of bond matters said to-day that the bonds already received, and the letters giving notice of additional amounts that are to be forwarded, make it certain that all the six per cents can be continued at 3½ per cent rate, and the treasury is already beginning to consider whether or not the same policy shall be adopted with respect to the maturing fives. The letters received even from bankers at the treasury indicate that there is a misapprehension with respect to the time within which application for continuance of the bonds at 3½ per cent must be made. Many of the bankers seem to think that they have until the end of the fiscal year, July 1, to decide whether or not they will make the continuance, whereas under the terms of the circular there remain only ten days for them to consider.

On and after Wednesday, May 4, 1881, the five per cent funded loan bonds of 1881, included in the 101st call, will be paid at the treasury of the United States, in the city of Washington, with interest from May 1 to May 21. The interest due May 1, 1881, on such registered bonds embraced in the 101st call as have not been redeemed, will be paid as usual by checks drawn to the order of the payees of the bonds.

SENATE.

The vice president laid before the senate the unfinished business, being the resolution for the election of officers of the senate.

Mr. Farley called attention to the large number of nominations which were awaiting action by the senate, and moved to go into executive session. The people of his state of all parties were appealing to this senate to consider important matters in which they were directly interested. Petitions were daily coming from the public press of California, asking for a consideration of the Chinese treaty. In one of those papers he had observed that he had been charged with retarding the consideration of the Chinese treaty. The record of the senate contradicted that statement. For many weeks the democratic senators had invited the republicans to go into executive session.

Eight hundred or one thousand Chinamen were arriving semi-monthly at San Francisco. A shipload of Chinamen and with small-pox on board, was to-day lying at quarantine in the harbor of San Francisco, and the people of California were protesting against this neglect on the part of the senate, for which neglect the republican party was responsible.

Mr. Dawes said that he was as anxious to to go into executive session as any man could be, but the record of the past two months would disclose the fact that the senator (Farley) and those who acted with him had been solely responsible for any delay in not going into executive session.

Mr. Farley replied that the republican party could not escape the responsibility for evils which had befallen the people of the Pacific coast.

Mr. Dawes rejoined that the senator stood here and told the people of California that rather than have the democratic secretary of the senate displaced, he would let the Chinese come and bring all evils that they might. The senator and his party had been in the majority in the senate and no one had touched his harp or piped his lute in favor of considering these Chinese treaties. But now the senator came in at this dying hour as a last chance and uttered maledictions upon the senate itself.

Mr. Farely repeated the statement that the people of California were protesting against the inaction of the senate, and declared that the republican party of that state were protesting against the election of Gorham as secretary of the senate. He believed that only the other side of the chamber had at last come to its senses. There was an opinion on the Pacific coast that the senator from Massachusetts (Mr. Dawes) and his colleagues were opposed to place any restriction on the immigration of the Chinese. Whether that is true or not, time would develop, but the present action of the senate would strengthen that opinion.

Mr. Dawes inquired to what party were the people of California indebted for any merits which the Chinese treaties might contain, and to whom were they indebted for the fact that these treaties were not to-day the laws of the land.

Mr. Beck taunted the republicans with cowardice in not going into executive session. They had not dared to do so, because of the divisions in the party on important nominations. The senator from Minnesota (Mr. McMillan) had declared himself responsible for the nomination of Mr. Johnson as chief clerk, as the senator from Virginia (Mr. Mahone) had declared himself responsible for the nomination of Gorham. If the senate went into executive session and some important nomination came up and either of those gentlemen voted against the nomination, no more patronage for them from the administration. If they voted for it then the stalwart republicans would see that none of the men that they wanted would hold places. Therefore a committee of seven, a committee of safety, an ecumenical council had been appointed to dictate to the consciences of the senators The republican organs in this city had announced that the republicans were going into executive session, so carefully guarding their action that they would allow no controverted nomination to be considered at all. The democrats were not to be allowed to like any point in executive session, but were to sit with their arms folded and let the republicans settle matters to whatever extent they dared.

Mr. Dawes expressed his surprise at what he termed a novel announcement that there was a great gulf yawning before the republican members of the senate. It was all new to him.

Mr. Saulsbury took the floor in denial of the charge made by Mr. Dawes that the democratic senators were responsible for the delay in transacting public business and asserted the contrary to be the truth. He argued in opposition to the right of the vice president to cast his vote upon the question of election of officers, and declared that upon such a question the democratic senators would not consent that the republicans should be placed in a position in which the vote of the vice-president might be used to give them power which did not belong to them. He contended that the democrats were justified in all they had done in repulsing the passage of the pending resolution and cognate questions connected with it. He did not charge that any bargain had been entered into, but he did assert that the people of the country believed it, and would believe that the election of Riddleberger was the consummation of that bargain; that it would lead to cast reproach upon the senate. The corruption and jobbing which had existed for years in some of the executive departments of the government had been well calculated to lessen the estimation of the people for the executive branch of the government, and he protested against any action of the senate which would still further lessen it in the estimation of the people. He warned the republicans that their course would bring the present administration into disrepute. He was not sure that the administration could have one-half of its nominations confirmed except for the aid which it expected from the democrats, but if this thing kept up and if the administration was to aid in strengthening the hands of a repudiator in the southern states, he (Saulsbury) would for one say unhesitatingly that the administration was not worthy of his support.

The motion to go into executive session was lost; ayes 21, nays 22.

An hour was consumed in calling the roll upon dilatory motions, and then, at 3:15, on motion of Mr. Dawes, the senate adjourned.

THE WESTERN FLOODS

Inspiring Renewed Fears Among the People.

ST. LOUIS, May 2.—Very serious apprehensions are beginning to be felt for the safety of property along the river front. The water is now nearly a foot and a half above the danger line and still rising. The low lands south of Chateau avenue and east of the high embankment of the Iron Mountain railroad is submerged. The Meser iron works on the eastern side of the river opposite Carondelet are surrounded by water and have suspended operations though there is not any immediate danger. South of this, however, in that portion of the city occupied by the Union stock yards and great lumber interest, there is much trouble. In East St Louis there is great danger of a general overflow. Cahokia creek, which runs through town, is overflowed from backwater, and great extents of the country in the neighborhood of Brooklyn and Venice, two small towns north of East St. Louis, are submerged, causing many families to abandon their houses. Water is also encroaching on the National stock yards, but it hasn't reached them yet, nor has the business of the yards been interfered with. Much of the cotton further inland, over toward the bluffs, is said to be inundated and growing crops destroyed. All the roads are strengthening their tracks and protecting their property, but a few inches more rise in the water will cause great damage and much interference to business, and possibly a suspension of traffic on some of the roads.

A NEW COMET

Makes its Appearance in the Heavens

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

ROCHESTER, May 2.—Professor Lewis Swift, astronomer of this city, discovered a new comet at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, located in the constellation of Andromeda, right ascension, no hours, no minutes, declination north 37°. This is the first comet discovered this year. The new comet is moving in a southerly direction, quite bright and a fair size. It is not the expected 1812 comet, although in nearly the location from which that comet is expected. This is the seventh comet Professor Swift has discovered.

A Sentimental Community.

SHREVEPORT, La., May 2.—The trial of S. W. Thomas, who killed Hugh Dickson, his brother-in-law, for seducing his (Thomas's) daughter closed last night, the jury rendering a verdict of manslaughter and recommending the prisoner to the least punishment under the law. The verdict was a surprise to the entire community, as an acquittal was anticipated. It is expected that the governor will be petitioned immediately to pardon Thomas, as such a petition would be signed by nearly every citizen.

A Madman's Freaks.

GALVESTON, May 2.—A special to the News, from Weimar says: Yesterday morning, eight miles north of here, Samuel Brown, while laboring under a temporary aberation of mind, cut his wife's throat and then his own with a razor. She had recognized his condition and had fled across the fields, but was overtaken. A little nine-year-old daughter attempted to take the razor from him and had her hand badly cut.

The New Telegraph Company.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Ex United States Treasurer John C. New, is here making arrangements for the sale of the stock of the Mutual Union telegraph company. In an interview with an Inter-Ocean reporter he said that the line will be built from New York to Chicago within six months.

THE CAGED REDMOND

CHAFING UNDER HIS CONFINEMENT.

An Interview With the Notorious Desperado—He Accuses Himself of Wonderful Innocence, While His Captors Prove Him to be a Public Desperado.

Special Correspondence Constitution.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., May 2.—"This is Major Redmond," said 'Squire Young, the courteous sheriff, as he pointed to a slender boyish figure that lay on a bed of straw in front of the iron-barred window, enjoying the cooling breeze from off the blue hills with which he is so familiar. He has a western window, and looking westward can see the distant peaks among which for several years he has been as much at home as a chamois among his native Alps. He extended a small weather stained hand to your correspondent and asked him to be seated on the only chair in his cell, except the one by which he propped his head.

"Where did you get your title, major?"

"Well, that," said he "is a nick-name they gim me when I was a boy."

"But you have been in command of squads of men at different times, have you not?"

"No, sir, I never was. Them's all a pack o' lies they tell about me havin' a band of men."

"What, major, are the charges against you?"

"They say, some'rs about a year and a half ago, I was seen in a blockade still-house. The truth about the matter is that there's a man out there in Swain county who has been a tryin' to lay his blockade 'stillin' on me. He has got suthin' or nurther agin me. We haint got along well together for sometime now."

"Major, tell me something about your life."

"Well," said he, adjusting the chair under his head more comfortably, "I was born close to where Atlanta, Georgia, is now, in 1854. Then my father moved up to Transylvania, in North Carolina. We lived there till the war come on, and moved to Swain county. After the war was over I went back to Transylvania and lived there and farmed it till 1877, when I had some little trouble with some revenuers. They was to blame, I wasn't. I left then and went over into South Carolina. That same year about corn-gatherin' time I married old man Ladd's gal—in the upper edge of Pickens county. I come back then in March '79 to Swain county and leased me some land on the Tennessee river, about eight miles from Charleston; but, wherever I've been I allers had a good character. The newspaper men has tole a heap o' lies on me."

"Major, how did the officers capture you?"

"Well I'll tell you," said he. "I have been a'livin' peaceable and not botherin' nobody fur this is now gwyin' on three years. I mostly stay at home and don't hardly ever leave my cabin 'cept to hunt a little and to work in my fields. Along about the fust week in April my wife asked me to step out in the edge o' the clearing and kill her a squir'l. And I heard the dogs a barking up on the ridge above the house; so I gits the shot gun and goes up that a way. But when I got in about fifty yards of my dogs—where they was a barking, I seen soomebody move behind the brush and cliff an' six men stepped out and hollered "halt." I turned around an' started towards my cabin and they kept a shootin', and ever once an' awhile I'd feel a ball hit me, and I heard 'em whizzin' by me till I got over the ridge. They run after me and overtook me about a hundred and fifty yards from my house."

"In how many places were you wounded, major?"

"Seven places, an' they hurt me mighty bad this mornin', but I don't say much about it."

—The officer's version differs somewhat from the major's statement. Officer Conley says: "We went to his house—or to a ridge about a hundred and fifty yards distant—early Thursday morning, April 7. At 10 o'clock a.m. the dogs saw us and came rushing up to where we were. Redmond followed with his gun. When in about fifty paces of us he lowered his gun as if to fire. We told him to halt, but as he was still rapidly advancing we fired. His gun fell from his hands and he ran towards his house. Passing the cabin he ran about one hundred and fifty yards into the woods beyond. All six of us closed in on him and found him wounded and exhausted. We took him to his house, and the physician said he could not be safely moved on an extended trip on account of his wounds. So we were forced to try to keep him in our charge there. We anticipated an attempt at rescue on the part of his friends. We plainly told Redmond, when we saw his neighbors coming to and going from his house, that if any attempt should be made to take him or any attack made on us that we would shoot him first. This, we think prevented his pals from the dangerous experiment. On Friday, April 22d, we carried him eight miles on a litter to Charleston among our friends, where we slept better. On the following day, Saturday, 23d instant, we started for Asheville, reaching here on Sunday. We brought him to Asheville because the several rewards offered for him designate that point as the place for delivery of his body."

—His father is said to have been a moonshiner, and fared badly at the hands of the revenue officers and the law. Hence it was but natural that young Redmond should imbibe the prejudices of his father. His antipathy to the agents of the revenue department was not concealed. He would speak often of his successful resistance of the officers of the law, state and federal. Flushed with victory, he became desperate and shot down Deputy Marshal Duckworth, in Transylvania county, in 1877, when an effort was being made for his arrest for alleged violation of the revenue laws. He then fled to South Carolina. But he did not there escape the sleepless eye of the law, but he managed to elude her officers. Whereupon a reward was offered, and and we are informed is still offered, for his person. Once in South Carolina his wagon and team were seized under the revenue law. He escaped the small squad of officers who took his property. But in a few hours he returned with a double-barrel shot gun, and with the wild daring of a frontier desperado, quickly dispersed the confiscators of his property. Then he, with his wife left South Carolina and came to the wildest part of the Blue Ridge country—Swain county. Here he has since had a wide berth. His fearless and daring reputation had preceded him. To this he materially added by his open and defiant conduct. He told the credulous mountaineers that he was "bullet-proof." His immediate neighbors—through policy—were his friends. They were afraid to be otherwise. At least, however, it was rumored that Redmond said, "There are not enough men in Swain county to arrest me." This awoke the energy and pride of the Swain county boys, and they determined to take him.

—The federal court convened here today, and Redmond will be tried some time during the session.

THE FEDERAL CAPITAL.

Conkling's Efforts to Thwart Garfield.

Special Correspondence Constitution.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—It is now conceded that there will be an executive session of the senate some time during the week. The republicans deny that they intend to give up the fight for the office, but to renew it after the executive sessions had performed the legitimate business of the body would be to resume a position even weaker than that which has just been abandoned. The Gorham-Riddleberger ticket is apparently doomed.

The democrats are beginning to see the good result in their brave, persistent fight in this contest. It is renewing the fast failing confidence of the masses in the ability and pluck of the party. The tone of the democratic press is hopeful for the first time since the disaster of November. The democratic leaders, with whom one has a chance to talk here are confident that the party can make itself powerfully felt in both branches of congress until its good work is rewarded by a bestowal of a majority in the house at the next election. Just now the politicians are hard at work preparing the wires that are to be pulled in executive session. The administration men have suddenly gained great confidence and declare that Conkling's fight is hopeless. But that masterly political manager is resting neither night nor day. He is not to be scoffed at. no matter how bold an effort he may make, for few men have such enormous resources. If he does not whip the administration in the Robertson case he will accept defeat merely as the incentive to more determined effort. As sure as he lives he will have his tit for tat with Garfield as he did with Hayes.

I recently heard a man of ability, who knows Garfield well, say that he had almost as little of the thing called backbone as Hayes, and that he chose Blaine as the strongest pillar he could find on which to rest his own irresolution. But men who know Blaine say that he, like most politicians, is for self first and his friends afterwards. Blaine is known to cherish a burning ambition for the presidency. It would not be the thing for him to make Garfield's administration too signal a success, for that would shut the gate to the rosy path on him in '84. By appearing before the country as the one strong figure in a cabinet famous already for its weakness; by artfully fathering all that is good, and quietly disapproving all that is bad in what must be a stormy administration, he can impress the public as the man who should be first and not second in power. But for some such ulterior object Blaine would never have left the senate where he had no peer in influence or popularity and where his vanity could be flattered oftener than is possible in cold shades of official dignity. It is supposed that the Chicago battle will be fought over in '84. Blaine or Grant seems now to be the prospect with the contingency that they may pull each other down and leave the prize to some accidental child of fortune like Hayes in '76 and Garfield in '80.

—Governor Bullock stopped in Washington yesterday on his return from New York to Atlanta. He is taking home his son who has been at school. He speaks confidently of the prospects of the cotton exposition, estimating that its value to Atlanta will be enormous, but that it will have a far wider scope extending to vast and permanent benefits to the whole south. Of the success of the enterprise he has no doubt whatever. Gov. Bullock is a man of such admirable business capacity that his hopeful view of the exposition is indeed cheering.

—While there are a large number of nominations ahead of Longstreet's, it is supposed that it will be favorably reported at an early day by the committee, and his confirmation may be had in a week. He will be ordered home at once to assume the vexatious duties of the office. I understand that Georgia is considered a thorny ground by the departments. In few states have there been so many feuds among federal office holders; so little consistent operation of the co-ordinate branches of government al authority. It is hoped that General Longstreet will manage the marshal's office so that there may be harmony in the efforts to execute the laws and that the collector, whoever he may be, will do the same thing. For a year or two past the offices of marshal and collector have not been arrayed so formidably against the evil doers as against each other. There has been a wrangling of which the authorities are sick and they have determined that it must stop.

—Colonel Bob Ingersoll has a hearty admiration for the southern people, and wants, as soon as he can get time, to take a trip among them. There have been frequent efforts to engage him for a lecture tour of the various southern cities, but hitherto they have failed. His lowest terms are $200 a night. Whenever he rents a hall and fires out for himself he bags at least $500 in a lively town. A fine portrait of him has just been hung in an avenue window, and is generally noticed The man has so many loveable virtues—his life is so full of tenderness and good to others that those who know him best regard his heresy merely as the aberration of a vigorous intellect. Personally no man is more sincerely esteemed by his friends and even by many of the most orthodox faith. F. H. R.

EPISCOPAL CONSECRATION.

The New Bishop of Natchez Inducted Into Office.

RICHMOND, Va., May 2.—The consecration of Very Reverend G. Janssens, vicar general of the diocese of Richmond, as bishop of Natchez, took place Sunday at St. Peter's cathedral in this city. Elaborate ceremonies and fine music had been anticipated, and long before the services commenced crowds of people had gathered in the vicinity of the cathedral.

In order to avoid confusion and rush that would have resulted from throwing doors open to the general public, tickets covering the capacity of the edifice had been issued, and without tickets no one was admitted. This brought order out of what might have been chaos, and everything passed off in a most quiet and orderly manner. Archbishop Gibbons, of Baltimore, officiated as consecrator, and Bishops Bleeker of Wilmington, of Delaware, and Keane, of Richmond, as assistant consecrators. Services including consecration, pontifical high mass, and consecration sermon, which latter was delivered by Bishop Elder coadjutor bishop of Cincinnati, occupied nearly four hours. Besides the prelates already mentioned there were present participating in the ceremonies the Right Rev. Bishops Lynch of Charleston, S. C., Moore of St. Augustine, Fla, Kain of Wheeling, W. Va., and Gross of Savannah, Ga These embrace all the prelates in the province of the metropolitan see of Baltimore and it is the first time the whole number were ever assembled together in Richmond. Among the visiting priests, of whom there were about forty from various sections, were the Very Rev. U. F. Gugrion, vicar general of the diocese of Natchez, and Rev. Henry Picherit, of Jackson, Miss., who were assistant priest and deacon of the mass, respectively; Very Rev Dr. A. L. Magnien, president of St. Mary's seminary, of Baltimore; Very Rev. Dr. John Foley, of Baltimore; Very Rev. P. F. Healy, president of the Georgetown college; Rev. B. McManus, of Baltimore; Rev. Father Hens, of Jersey City, New Jersey; Rev. Dr. Schneider, of New Jersey; Rev. Father Grady, of New York; Rev. Father Murphy, of Cincinnati; Rev. F. A. Bleyenbergh, of Detroit; Rev. C. P. Maes, of Detroit; Rev. J. F. Eizen Hudson, Michigan, with Very Rev. Vandervanden, chancellor of St. Louis; Rev. Hermann O. Berfelt, of Vicksburg, Mississippi; Rev. Joseph L. Wise, of Yazoo City, Mississippi; Rev. W. H. Braytener, of St. Louis; Bishop Janssens celebrated pontifical vespers in the afternoon, and delivered his farewell address. Many in the large audience were affected to tears, and the bishop himself betrayed deep emotion. He was greatly beloved in Richmond, and his departure is regretted by all.

RAILROAD NEWS.

The Latest Developments Along the Lines.

JEFFERSON, Texas, May 2.—A large and enthusiastic meeting assembled here on Saturday to discuss the propriety of organizing a railway company to construct a road from this city to Memphis. A committee was appointed to raise subscriptions for completing a survey.

A special from Austin says: The Austin and Northwestern railroad company filed its charter in the office of the secretary of state Friday. The road is to run from Austin through the counties of Travis, Williamson, Bennet, Lampassas, San Saba, McCulloch, Coleman, Runnels and Taylor, with a branch to the Rio Grande.

VICKSBURG, Miss., May 2.—At a meeting to-day of the directors of the Vicksburg and Meridian railroad, George Arents, of New York, was elected president.

AUGUSTA, Georgia, May 2.—The Central and Georgia railroad stocks are quiet. The former is offered at 143 and the latter at 154 The Memphis and Charleston opened at 58 and advanced rapidly to 64 to 65. Several thousand shares were sold at prices ranging from 60 to 65. The advance is attributed to a report that the road will pay a semi-annual dividend of 2½ or 3 per cent.

THE BRUNSWICK EXTENSION.

Macon Telegraph, 1st.

We are gratified to be able to state that the authorities of the Brunswick railroad have purchased one hundred and ten miles of steel rail with which to extend the road. It is not yet known which route they will adopt. They have the option, we understand, of departing from the Macon and Augusta road at Roberts's station and running across to Social Circle or Covington, and over the Georgia road from Macon to Atlanta, or they may build a direct line from Macon to Atlanta.

But this one thing we do know: the Brunswick extension will undoubtedly be built. We were assured of this yesterday afternoon by the officials of the road. This will be highly gratifying news, not only to the people of Macon, but all throughout Georgia. Much has been written and more said on the subject. THE CONSTITUTION has published from time to time the utterances of some of their well known citizens, who stated positively that the Brunswick extension would never be built. We are pleased at being able to contradict such statements. The rail has been purchased, and at a near day, Macon and Atlanta will be connected by a second road, which will do much to increase the prosperity of both cities.

Mrs. Lincoln Seriously Ill.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 2.—The report having recently got into the newspapers that the widow of President Lincoln contemplated an early visit to Pau, in Southern France, it may be stated that Mrs. Lincoln is now at the house of her sister in this city, confined to her bed by sickness. She never expects to go abroad again. She is subject to periods of great mental depression, and her friends have serious apprehensions for her recovery.

The Debt Statement.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The debt statement issued to-day shows the decrease of the public debt during the month of April to be $9,690,900 25; cash in the treasury $233,781,195 81; gold certificates $5,962,000 00; silver certificates $50,680,140 00; certificates of deposit outstanding $8,295,000 00; refunding certificates $725,100 00; legal tenders outstanding $346,681,016 00; fractional currency outstanding $7,115,046 92.

Stages Robbed.

GALVESTON, Texas, May 2.—A special to the News from Brackett reports that the east and west bound stages were robbed on Friday night near Sabinal by the notorious "Tall and Short Man," the mail sacks were ripped open and registered packages extracted. The stage from the east was held for eight hours, until the arrival of that from Westmay. T. T. Teal, the only passenger, lost nine dollars. He successfully concealed $1,800 in checks.

Remembering Beaconsfield.

LONDON, May 2.—The queen and the Princess Beatrice drove to Hughenden manor to-day to visit the tomb of the late earl of Beaconsfield.

The Right Hon. William Henry Smith, member of parliament, yesterday purchased, for £2,000, the portrait of the late Lord Beaconsfield by Millais, now on exhibition at the royal academy.

The New England Free Thinkers.

NEW YORK, May 2.—H L Greene, of Salamanca, N. Y., secretary of the Free Thinkers association, gives notice that a Free Thinkers' national convention has been called to meet in Hornellsville, N. Y., on the 24th day of August next and will remain in session five days.

WHAT THE PEOPLE ARE DOING.

A Disastrous Pipe Explosion in Macon—Patterson Convicted of Murder—Railroad Rumors in Thomasville—A Fatal Railroad Disaster in Liberty County.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

MACON, May 2.—This morning at six o'clock the main pipe conveying the steam from the boiler to the engine at the cotton factory exploded, scalding to death the colored fireman, Frank Dorsey. The explosion caused the walls of the engine house to crack, but did little other damage. No other persons were near at the time, the engineer not having come to work Dorsey was well known, recently married and liked by all. He was buried this afternoon. He was terribly burned about the face and shoulders and was found doubled up under the fly wheel. His death was almost instantaneous, the concussion being very great.

THOMASVILLE, April 30.—The president, general manager, treasurer and attorney of the Savannah, Florida and Western railroad spent yesterday in Thomasville. They have gone on to Bainbridge—several rumors are afloat concerning the trip. It is said that they contemplate a change in the running schedule of trains which will be decidedly unpleasant for us. It is further alleged that they will run only three trains a week by Thomasville. The latter rumor seems a little preposterous, but is explained as being devised to stir up antagonism to the commission by the railroad claiming that it must retrench. The general opinion is that the road contemplates some scheme for punishing the Thomasville people on account of their decided commission proclivities. There is also a rumor afloat that they will buy the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile and make the extension to Pollard from Chattahoochee instead of extending the Savannah, Florida and Western from Bainbridge. Whatever is the true explanation all seem agreed that the main idea is to drive the Thomasville people into opposing the commission by holding its alleged legitimate fruits in terrorism over the heads of the people.

DALTON, April 30.—Rev. Nathan Bauckman, an eloquent divine of Knoxville, is conducting a series of meetings at the First Presbyterian church which are largely attended.—Summer visitors are coming in rapidly already. The National hotel, the popular home for winter and summer visitors, is fully prepared for the rush with the best accommodations. The following are registered there to-day, a great many of whom will spend the spring and summer. Mr. Elijah Brown, of Brownwood Farm, Ga.; G. D. Clark and family, Plainville, Conn; Captain E. R. Gelpin and family, of Birian Summit, Pa.; E. R. Biglow, Cleveland, O; J. L. Harper, Washington, D. C.; O. H Sharp, Canada; Asa Hagan, Knoxville; Chas. T. Martin, Cincinnati, O.; Wm. Butler, Atlanta.—Messrs. R. C. Balty, of Nunda, N. Y., and J. A. Boyer and wife, of Rock Island, Ill., who have been spending the winter here, left for their homes the other day.—The graves of the confederate dead will be decorated May 10th. Rev. J. M. Lee, the eloquent pastor of the M. E. Church will deliver the address.—Prof. R. J. Gonzalez, the eminent baritone vocalist of New York, will give a musical entertainment in the music hall of the female college on the evening of May 6th. He will be assisted by Masters Charley and Johnie Gonzalez, sons of the professor Madame Bertha Ruhl, Miss Nellie Ruhl, and Miss Genie Richardson. The music-loving community anticipate a rare treat.

ROME, May 1.—Judge R. R. Harris, for several years editor of the Courier, has severed his connection with that paper. Judge Harris is one of the ablest editorial writers in Georgia, and it is hoped that his vigorous pen may not long remain unused.—A grand temperance rally will be held in the Nevin opera-house to-morrow afternoon.—The masonic celebration on the 24th of June will be a splendid affair. The programme will be a most attractive one, and many visiting Masons will doubtless be present.—The annual meeting of the Young Men's library association will be held on the evening of the 12th instant. An election for officers will be held, and other important business transacted. The library is in a very flourishing condition.

CANTON, May 2.—Pickens superior court adjourned last Saturday. Ace Patterson, for the killing of Simmons, an account of which was given in THE CONSTITUTION at the time, was tried, found guilty and sentenced to lifetime imprisonment. Some other criminal cases were tried and disposed of, but I did not learn the nature and extent.—The Marietta and North Georgia railroad authorities are pushing the road right on toward completion. Work will be begun, laying of ties and building trestles on the extension, next Tuesday, it is said. Messrs. Kinsay and Eagler, the two gentlemen who are striving to push the road through, are in Pickens county trying to get up the desired amount to be raised in that county, $10,000. We wish them every possible success. The road must be completed.

FORSYTH, May 2.—Quite a large party from here attended a picnic at High Falls on last Saturday. All unite in pronouncing it a very enjoyable affair.—The Quitman Guards will have a prize target shooting this afternoon.—Memorial day passed pleasantly. The orator chosen not accepting, Miss Hattie Dunn read a poem suitable for the occasion. Judge trippe made a few introductory remarks.—Mr. Jeff Hogan has again rallied and is able to be up, JESUP, April 30.—The west bound freight and accommodation train on the Savannah, Florida and Western railway broke through the trestle over Back swamp in Liberty county, three miles east of the Altamaha river, yesterday, killing one of the train hands, a colored man, and badly injuring the engineer and fireman. Eight freight boxes were thrown in the wreck, leaving one box car and the passenger coach with several passengers and the well known conductor, Judge Dupont, on the track O. K.

ALBANY, April 30.—We regret to learn that Judge W. O. Fleming was met at this place last evening on his return from Worth superior court by a dispatch informing him of the serious illness of his father, the venerable Judge Fleming of the Savannah circuit.—A grand ball and supper will be given at Willingham's hall next Wednesday evening by the members of the A. O. U. W. of this place to their visiting brethren and delegates from other places.

BARNESVILLE, May 2.—Mr. Willis S. Morris came home from Atlanta last Friday morning sick and partly deranged in his mind. He has since gone completely crazy, I understand. He was last year a marshal of our own, and this year has been drumming for an Atlanta firm. We hope his insanity is only temporary.—Barnesville now boasts of a pistol club, and there are crack shots in it. The long evenings of summer will be whiled away in target practicing.

What the Papers Say.

Berrien County News.

The turpentine still of Messrs. Ball & Woodburn, situated three miles west of this place, was destroyed by fire on Friday afternoon of last week. There was a considerable quantity of spirits and crude rosin destroyed and also a number of empty barrels. The damage to the still and the loss in spirits and rosin will probably amount to $500. The origin of the fire is a mooted question. Some say that it was caused by the still being overheated, and others assert with equal confidence that it was ignited by Mr. J. H. Griffin's pipe. Mr. Griffin, it seems, was sitting smoking five or six feet from the mouth of the pipe and directly in front of it. The first warning he had of danger was a stream of fire which came out of the mouth of the pipe and extended to his mouth, severely burning his mouth, face and hands. He says that had he been in the least impeded in making his escape he would have been burned beyond all hope of recovery. His burns, although very painful, are not dangerous, and we hope they will soon be entirely healed.

Athens Banner.

Mr. John White, one of the oldest citizens of Clarke county, and one of the most prominent business men of the state, died at his home, at the Georgia factory, Thursday evening about six o'clock. He had been ill for some weeks. At times he would be considered in great danger, then again his strong constitution would rally and seem ready to baffle disease. His great age, however—he was 82—prevented the exercise of such recuperative power as he would have been able to exert if he had been younger, and at last his wearied frame succumbed to the persistent attacks of the destroyer, and he breathed his last. Mr. White was a man of no ordinary character. A native of Ireland, he possessed the stern courage, the undaunted energy and the untiring capacity for work which are characteristic of the sons of the Emerald isle. He came to America when a young man, and to Clarke county forty years ago or more. He began work then at the Georgia factory—as an employe, if we are rightly informed. He soon bought a small interest in it, and such were his industry and business talent, that in ten years he was the sole proprietor, and has been ever since. Since then his progress has been both steady and rapid. He has long been recognized as one of the richest men in Georgia. His fortune has been variously estimated at figures running from $500,000 to $1,000,000. As he was a man of his own counsel, it is probably not known what the value of his estate is. Besides the Georgia factory he was the owner of about three-fourths of the stock of the Athens national bank. Mr. White was a man of spotless integrity. In all his business transactions he was the soul of honor. His integrity was that of sturdy character that would neither wilfully impose on the rights of others, nor take advantage of the ignorance of others. Under a brusque exterior, he carried a heart full of kindness. Said one to us yesterday who had known him forty years: "There never was a man so little understood as Mr. White. Many thought him a stern, hard man; but he abounded in beneficence and charity. He was modest and unostentatious, and sought not to let his left hand know what his right hand did. He had done more good than the world will ever know." This is a high tribute. The poor whom he continually helped out of his abundance, will not forget him. Mr. White leaves a wife and four children—all of the latter having arrived at the years of maturity. His remains will be brought from his residence to the Athens cemetery and be buried this morning. The Times states that opposition in the house of commons will not formally oppose the goverment's bill for the amendment of the parliamentary oath act.

The Times, in a leading article this morning, says: It has been our painful duty to record during the past two or three weeks the repeated acts of outrage in the west and south of Ireland—scarcely inferior in atrocity to those which awakened the national conscience for four months. To-day the records of agrarianism are more serious than at any time since parliament met in January.

John Dillon was arrested to-night at Post Arlington, while on the way to Dublin.

Dillon's speech in Tiperary, last evening, was one of the bitterest and most uncompromising that he has made. He advised the people to keep within the law, not because he respected it or thought they respected it, but for the sake of preserving their organization. They might exercise their ingenuity to sail as close to the line as possible.

In the house of commons to-day Mr. Lewis gave notice that he will oppose the bill for the amendment of the parliamentary oath act by an amendment that since the bill is intended to facilitate the admission of professed atheists into the house of commons the house declines to be a party to it.

Mr. Labouchere announced that he would oppose the motion for the erection of a monument to the late Lord Beaconsfield by moving the previous question. The amendment was received by cheers from the radical members.

Sir Charles W. Dilke, under-foreign secretary confirmed the announcement from Constantinople that an imperial irade had been issued authorizing the porte to accept the proposed solution of the Greek frontier question.

Sir Charles W. Dilke, replying to the question said: The Monarch, iron clad, has been ordered to Tunis and has probably already arrived there. She would, he said, protect Europeans in case of disturbances, but he hoped none would occur.

Right Hon. M. E. G. Duff, confirmed news of the conclusion of peace with the Basutos.

Lord Randolph Churchill opposed Mr. Gladstone's motion for the postponement of the order of the day to allow for the introduction of the bill to amend the parliamentary oath act.

After a motion to adjourn was defeated by 318 to 13 the house agreed that Sir Henry James, attorney general would introduce the bill to amend the parliamentary oath act to night, and debate on that subject was adjourned until Friday next.

Debate on the land bill was resumed.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

A dispatch from Durban to the Times says the conditions of peace with the Basutos are that all arms are to be surrendered, but gun licenses are to be granted with the approval of a magistrate—the guns surrendered to be paid for at a settled value. All government property captured during the rebellion to be returned, and the Basutos to pay a fine of 5,000 cattle. There will be no confiscation of territory.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The Regular Annual Occasion Yesterday.

Early yesterday morning Marietta street was thronged with people who came out to witness the sport of the Atlanta firemen, and by the time the hour appointed for the procession to move had arrived the entire route of march was alive with people.

At 9 o'clock the procession started on its march. First came a carriage containing Mayor English, his son, Councilman Johnson, of the fourth ward, and David Gahn, third assistant chief of the fire department. These were followed by the fire companies in the order enumerated in Sunday's CONSTITUTION.

The line of march, which has been given in this journal, was literally alive with people who greeted the boys with continual applause from the time Chief Haney gave the word "march" until he called a halt.

Up and down Marietta street the department formed, after the march had been completed, and was inspected by the mayor, a delegation from the city council and the chief and assistant engineers, after which the order "break ranks" was given.

The contest between the steamers was abandoned, and the race for the Dougherty badge was called. The entries were nine, and the contest was opened by Mr. Bart Wall, of Mechanic No. 2, who made the 200 yards, turning on and off water in 41½ seconds.

Then came Luke Fenn, of the same company, whose time was 42¾ seconds.

No. 5 had three entries, one of which won the prize. Don Paul's time was 47 seconds, which was duplicated by Gus Loeller. Charles Church, who won the badge, made the race in 40 seconds, being one half second more than Lester's time last year.

Henry Beermann and DeSaussure represented the Hook and Ladder. The latter's time was 43 seconds.

Beerman made his run, but when he grappled the plug he found it impossible to turn the cap, and "missed connection."

William Howard, of No. 3, scored 43⅘ seconds. W. Pinson with 46½ seconds, W. Johnson with 52 seconds, E. Harbuck with 44 seconds, represented No. 4. and the contest ended by awarding the prize to Charles Church, of No 5.

Mr Beermann's friends claimed that the judges were at fault in not seeing that the cap was in perfect order, thus causing him to lose the prize. It is claimed that his time from the start to the plug was the best made, and there is a strong talk of an appeal.

AN IRISH DEMONSTRATION.

A Monster Land League Meeting in Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 2.—The Illinois state land league convention met in this city yesterday. Three hundred and eighty six delegates were present from all parts of the state. One of the resolutions adopted pledges the convention to the raising of $250,000 before January 1, 1882, to further the Irish cause. Another resolution pledged the members of the land league of Illinois individually and collectively to devote their energies, fortunes and if need be their lives to the furtherance of the Irish land movements, and the unqualified emancipation of the people of Ireland from the intolerable yoke of the feudal tyranny. Richard Pendergast made a fierce attack on the policy of Mr. Gladstone and his present land bill, stating that it was obnoxious, not only to the people, but to the most conservative body of all Roman Catholic hierarchy and clergy.

SOMETHING TO BE LOOKED INTO.

The Air-Line Railroad Discriminating Against Atlanta Merchants.

Is this an act of discrimination?

For several years past the wholesale merchants of Atlanta have been supplied with thousand-mile tickets over the Atlanta and Charlotte Air-Line railroad, which tickets have been consumed by their traveling salesmen soliciting trade along this road.

Recently several applications for tickets of this character have been submitted by Atlanta merchants and by the agent of the road at this place forwarded to Richmond, now the headquarters of the road, for action.

A few days since the agent of the road at this place was notified by Mr. A. Pope, general passenger agent of the road, that owing to the ruling of the railroad commission in Georgia, no thousand-mile tickets will be sold in this state. The same letter intimates, in fact almost plainly says, that these tickets are sold over their lines of road in Virginia and the Carolinas.

Hurt Horses.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

CINCINNATI, May 2.—A dispatch from Lexington, Kentucky, reports that Mayor Thomas has received news that the racer Himyar has been lamed, and that Ben Himyar, full brother to Himyar, had run against a fence and knocked an eye out.

An Equine Epidemic.

PARIS, May 2.—A terrible epidemic, somewhat akin to typhus, is making great havoc among the horses of this city. The Paris omnibus company is said to have lost 75,000 francs and the Compagnie des Petites Voitures over a million francs.

FINANCIAL FACTS.

NEW YORK, May 2.—The stock market opened strong and generally higher and under brisk purchasing movement prices took an upward turn in the late dealings when figures as compared with the closing of Saturday ranged from ⅛ to 10 per cent, latter in Louisville and New Albany, Memphis and Charleston 8; Alton and Terra Haute, and Houston and Texas 4; New York Central 2⅝; Reading 2⅛; Delaware, Lackawanna and Western 2⅜ and New Jersey Central, Iron Mountain, and Marietta and Cincinnati 2. In the final sales some stock reacted a fraction, but the market closed generally strong. The sales aggregated 431,045 shares.

Never has THE CONSTITUTION been as thoroughly equipped and so fully prepared to furnish such a paper as at present.

With telegraphic service unequalled by any Southern paper; with trained Correspondents in every locality in which its readers are interested.

With a capable Editorial Staff, a corps of efficient Reporters, and the best of "special" contributors, THE CONSTITUTION can promise to its readers that it will be better than ever before, and will confirm its position as the leading Southern newspaper.

While THE CONSTITUTION will carry the general news of the day, and express its opinions frankly on political topics, it will devote special attention to the development of Southern resources in all legitimate channels or directions.

Every Georgian and every man interested in Southern enterprise and growth should read THE CONSTITUTION in one of its editions.

ATLANTA, GA., MAY 3, 1881.

THE cotton crop in an important district of lower Egypt is in a collapsed state, owing to a want of water on account of the failure of a canal. There is after all only one section of this world where the requisite amounts of sun and moisture are combined for the successful cultivation of the cotton plant.

GENERAL KAUFMAN is still partly paralyzed, although he is not in immediate danger of death. He has as yet no control over his voice. Russia owes this man a great deal of gratitude; for it was he who conquered Khiva and Turkestan, thereby adding many millions of subjects to the great empire. He conquered an empire of itself in Central Asia.

SENATOR FARLY opened for the affirmative in the national debating society yesterday. He argued the case from a California standpoint. He showed that California is being flooded with cheap labor and disease, because the senate will not confirm the Chinese treaty. He did not succeed in convincing Mr. Dawes of the error of his policy, but he probably did succeed in calling the attention of some republicans in his own state to the attitude of their own party.

THE debt statement for April discloses a surplus revenue of nearly ten millions of dollars. Such a surplus shows how great this country has become; for it was collected without imposing any very distressing taxes upon the people. Some of the sources of income are unnecessary, but except indirectly they are not positively burdensome. This fact alone would enable Mr. Windom to borrow money at three per cent., if he would but make the effort. He seems to prefer a higher rate.

GENERAL GRANT'S star seems to be waning. His name is no longer potent. He was put at the head of the world's fair, and it immediately began to lose strength. He was sent not long ago to Mexico to promote some railroad schemes but in Mexico he was coldly received, the greasers according him no public reception whatever, although they had just lionized General Ord. The interest he was sent to serve will be lucky if it stands of good when Grant leaves Mexico as it did when he entered that country.

AFFAIRS in Tunis are progressing very favorably for the French. An attempt to unfurl the standard of the prophet for the purpose of inciting a fanatical war, has been nipped in the bud; but the very effort to bring on a holy war shows that the Moslems see a subjugation in the air at the hands of infidels—in other words, the French. The bey however continues to declare that he holds France in high esteem; and if the French armies can protect him from his own people, he will undoubtedly accept such terms as the conquerors see fit to exact. Tunis is as good as absorped already—Tripoli will be swallowed next.

MR. DORSEY, who was once an alleged United States senator, but who has of late divided his time to advantage between star contracts and the republican party—twin relics of the war period—pleads "not guilty;" and with a cheek that is simply sublime asks the postmaster-general to establish his innocence. The lamented Mr. Dorsey may be technically free of speculation in "star routes:" the record may show that he had nothing to do with the profits of the "expedited service; but all the evidence in the world cannot reverse the popular conviction on this subject. Both he and Mr. Brady had better drop out of public view for their own good.

Some Lofty Arguments Examined.

Only a few days ago THE CONSTITUTION had occasion to quote from the Augusta Chronicle and Constitutionalist what seemed to be a wholesale indorsement of the railroad commission. This, however, was mere seeming. True, the Chronicle declared that the commission was a "positive blessing to the people," that "no attempt to write it down will "succeed," because "from every assault it "emerges stronger and more desirable;" but this was several days ago—almost an age. At present the Chronicle is not prepared to indorse the commission—least of all its attempt to regulate rates. Indeed, the Chronicle goes so far as to announce that the railroad managers themselves have little or no control over the rates on their respective lines, and a curious but significant attempt is made to confuse the schemes of the pool with the law of supply and demand. But upon this point the Chronicle must speak for itself:

> It would be idle for a Georgia farmer to dispute with a Broad street merchant over the price of wheat. The price was not fixed in Augusta, nor yet in Cincinnati, nor yet entirely in the field and by the labor which produced it. It was determined by the great laws of supply and demand—more varying and resistless than the winds of the land or the tides of the ocean. The Georgia farmer may be nearly as much at the mercy of a famine in bread in England or a crop failure in Russia, which has drawn upon the grain fields of the United States, as the European peasant upon whom the blight has directly fallen. And the Broad street produce man has no more the power to lower the price of wheat than he has to command the sun to stand still. Can the farmer afford to do without the corn rather than pay the price, is the question. Just so it is in railroad business. To say that a green line car which reaches Atlanta must be hauled for so much per ton per mile over the Georgia railroad is preposterous. The car started from, say Chicago, where competition affixed its freight rate and determined the tariff one thousand miles in advance. So it is on a smaller scale, but with precisely the same principle in the state where competition comes into play and water lines assert their power. Transportation has become a problem of magnificent distances, but of uncertain forces. It is a science not near so exact as astronomy, and is far from being so probable as meteorology. It was Sir William Herschel, who calculated, from the variations of the orbit of Neptune, the exact position of the planet Uranus; and, sure enough, the telescope revealed the star in its computed place. It has been left for the prophet Vennor to predict the behavior of the clouds and the velocity of the wind; but that railroad man does not exist who could foretell what the freight rate in class B would be six months hence from Chicago to Mobile. Neither General Alexander, Mr. Wadley nor John. W. Garrett, with all their experience or skill, could prescribe a rate so far in advance over their own roads; nor, indeed, keep up tariff long at any rate. How, then, can any outside commission affect to prescribe a rate and say that this is just or that is reasonable. How can a board of three men, not engaged in active railroad work, and not governed by the laws of trade or the pressure of business, engage to erect a freight schedule which should be binding because it is equitable? It would be folly in Mr. Wadley to try to establish a rate between Augusta and Charlotte, as it would in General Hazzell to dictate tariff between Columbus and Savannah. What outsider or set of men should be authorized to ordain a schedule of rates, unless those who are engaged or interested in the working of the railroads involved? It has frequently been maintained that the railroad pool is an arbitrary arrangement. But where was ever set up a more arbitrary tribunal than that of a board of inexperienced and irresponsible men, who are expected to do for the people and the railroad ... which the railroad men are frequently powerless to do for themselves?

There is a good deal of fine writing in the foregoing, but it may be summed up in homely Georgia phrase, thus: The manager of a railroad does not know at what rate he can afford to haul freight, and therefore he cannot fix the prices. These are fixed by competition at Chicago or elsewhere. Now, if this were true, there would be no complaint on the part of the people, and there would be no need to apply the remedy of railroad legislation; but there is no competition at Chicago or elsewhere among the trunk lines. Rates are fixed by Mr. Albert Fink, the pool commissioner, and the smaller lines are compelled to accept them. Recently the rates on grain from Chicago to the seaboard fell from 35 to 19 cents a hundred pounds. There was bad faith in the pool. This was patched up and immediately Mr. Fink advanced rates to thirty cents, forty-two railroads submitting to his imperial ukase. This is the sort of competition that traffic finds at Chicago, and this is what government regulation must cure.

The Chronicle's illustration of the regulation of the price of wheat has another bearing. The price is fixed in Liverpool, and a part of that price is the cost of transportation from the interior to the seaboard. If the roads can carry grain at twenty cents a hundred and make a profit when the water-ways are open for competition, why can they not carry it at the same price the year round? To charge thirty-five cents when there is no competition is simply to plunder producers of their legitimate profits. The arguments of the Chronicle are the products of a singularly vivid and poetic imagination; they are beautiful in conception and gracefully put; but the rates at which a railroad can afford to carry freights may be fixed by a much simpler computation than that which Sir William Herschel was enabled to point out the position of Uranus. Why is it that the railroad managers of the country cannot fix rates over their own roads? Simply because, in order to prevent competition they have surrendered this right into the hands of the pool. What the Georgia railroad commission can do is a very small affair compared with what must be done. Between indiscriminate competition and the plundering process that goes on under cover of the pool, there is a happy medium that can only be reached by means of government regulation.

It is imperative that the business and production of the country should be relieved of the evils which flow from the arbitrary, unjust and unnecessary fluctuations of transportation rates. To quote from a former article in the Chronicle, "everything lawful should be done to 'protect the people against the rapacious "encroachment of the great corpora"tions."

We make one other quotation from the Chronicle in order to show how a beautiful literary style may be made the vehicle of absurdity:

> "But," says the commission, "our schedules fixing rates are reports, not judgments. The railroads may obey them or contest the matter in the courts." This argument is not even plausible. The commission discharge their duties by virtue of the law of the land. Once in the courts the railroads would have no recourse, for the judges can but enforce the law. Such suits would be fulsome and fruitless, for by going to law over unjust freight rates, a railroad official would be simply transferring his cause from a tribunal which affects to know something about it to a tribunal which does not pretend to know anything about it. Such an argument would be similar to a declaration from the judge on the bench who, after sentencing the prisoner to death, might authorize the culprit to talk the matter over with the sheriff, who has no authority in the premises at all.

The law prescribes a punishment for the crime of murder. An individual accused of this crime cannot go into the courts to establish his innocence, because these tribunals know nothing of the circumstances of the crime. The courts can but enforce the law. That law prescribes the penalty, and there is no escape from it, even for persons who are foolish enough to depend upon the courts to establish their innocence. The law prescribes a penalty for swindling. A man who has been swindled by his neighbor has no recourse in the courts, because these tribunals know nothing of the circumstances of the case, and as it is the duty of the judges to enforce the law, the probability is that the man who was swindled will be convicted as a swindler. A very pretty argument as it stands, and THE CONSTITUTION is willing to let it stand.

THE leading republican newspapers allude to Gorham as a man out of politics This is indeed ominous.

YOUR Uncle Joseph Brown retains his serenity in the face of the attacks of the republican organs. This is in the nature of a very severe retort. Indeed, it is really abusive.

GORHAM appears to believe that Mr. Garfield was elected on probation.

IF Mr. Garfield really desires to break up the solid south, let him appoint Ohio men to the federal offices in this section. The south has done nothing to deserve this sort of treatment, but if the president is in earnest, he might as well prescribe a heroic remedy.

SPRING chickens are already old enough to vote.

IT has now been more than four years since Mr. Conkling was president by proxy, and the outlook is still gloomy. No wonder the man is impatient.

THE Keely motor betrays as much vitality as Eli Perkins

THERE seems to be a deadlock in the Sprague divorce case. The old man has probably been prevailed upon not to break up the stalwart wing of the republican season.

MR. GARFIELD proposes to use the independents as a club to break up the solid south. Did the president ever behold a split in the republican party? But perhaps it is unnecessary to call his attention to such a small side show as a split in the republican party in the south.

THE New York Tribune is disposed to bite its thumbs at Mr. Conkling. Mr Conkling, however, retains his health.

BRADY'S Washington newspaper is making an effort to bulldoze the administration. There are stormy times ahead for the great republican party.

MR. GARFIELD seems to be of the opinion that the independents, so-called, can break up the democratic party in the south. This is simply the Hayes policy over again, gilded with a touch of galootism; so to speak.

THE Mrs. R. B Hayes cold water society should take Don Cameron in hand. If possible an ice-pack should be applied to his most vulnerable parts.

WHEN the organs allude to Brady as a thief, he smites himself upon his manly bosom and proudly remarks: "I am a re"publican!"

THE organs were wont to tear their hair and deplore that the democratic majority in congress was governed by the caucus. And yet, they have little to say now, when the republican caucus is obstructing the public business. Such impartial patriotism on the part of the organs deserves to be recompensed.

THE Hon. G. Frisbie Hoar should endeavor to redeem himself by reciting the beautiful poem about the boy who stood on the burning deck.

DORSEY says Brady is a scoundrel. This shows that the two men are intimately acquainted with each other. We await with impatience Brady's summary of Dorsey.

THE republican newspapers are now exceedingly anxious to expose the star route frauds; but last year they applauded the attitude of the republican party in congress which filibustered to prevent the printing of the testimony which had been gathered by a democratic investigating committee, headed by Congressman Blount, of Georgia.

IN GENERAL.

—An elephant can't swing a full grown trunk until it's eighteen years old.

—Robert J. Burdett, the Hawkeye humorist, will spend the summer at St. Andrew, N. B.

—Mrs. Garfield, Mrs. Blaine, and Mrs Windom, as well as their husbands were school teachers in early life.

—Queen Victoria, it is reported, is going to Italy in June, accompanied by her son Leopold, whose delicate health is giving rise to serious apprehensions.

—Sitting Bull's daughter, "Sleeping Water," has added to the old man's woes by eloping with an objectionable young brave.

—Harper's and Scribner's magazines are transported to London and sold there for ten cents less than the American price, a result of our tariff system.

Here is the very latest: Can you dance the racquet? No, but my friend Hackett, with a cardigan jacket used to dance the racquet. Do you tumble to the racket?

—Pepperidge must be ranked among the precious wood for certain purposes. Compared with any other wood a large tree of it might be worth $500 for awl or file handles, after manufacture, because it is less liable to split without a ferule than other woods are with one.

—A few miles inland, in a deep gorge on the island of Scio, amid grand scenery, until the recent earthquake, stood the wealthy monastery of Neamoning, founded according to tradition, by Constantine the Great. Its stones now lie scattered below the cliff. Only six monks were inside at the time of the catastrophe, and were killed; the other seventy four, who were in the field, saw their homes shattered before their eyes.

—The Boston girl is devoted to art. She is a woman of design but she puts them all on canvas. She talks to you about studies and shapes, and the new designs she is putting on the "biscuit." She walks Commonwealth avenue wrapped in visions. She is inaccessible as a mermaid. When you fondly imagine her meditations are solely on the brilliancy of the last remark with which her presence has inspired you, she is really occupied with her secret cogitations upon the lovely, iridescent pitcher, and wondering if any potter would throw her that particular shape in native clay.

—The Toronto Globe admits that the Canadian people have great admiration for the United States. It remarks: "It can't be concealed—it is no use in concealing the truth—that a great many of our people think the American republic better than our dominion, because it is a republican country. It has a charm for them. As the poor American slaves used to watch the northern star when sighing for liberty prior to 1860, and wended their way by circuitous routes to Canada, so the people of Europe and many of our people are attracted by the fame the glory, the free intercourse, as they think—the free life of the great republic."

—According to the London World, it is not to be supposed, because Abbotsford is let to Baron Grant, that the family of Sir Walter Scott is "virtually extinct." The novelist's daughter who married Lockhart left a daughter, who married Mr. Hope, Q. C., better known as Mr. Hope-Scott; their daughter, again, married the Hon. Joseph Maxwell, who also assumed the famous patronymic. And there is now more than one little Maxwell-Scott to call Sir Walter great-great-grandfather. There is no prospect of Abbotsford passing out of the hands of the family, though the owners may accept a temporary tenant while they are enjoying more genial climates than that of Scotland.

—During the first week in April a man named Scipio Verturini shot himself through the head in the Milan cathedral. He was carried to a hospital, where he died on the following morning. It was decided that the suicide had desecrated the sacred edifice, and the archbishop gave orders that it should be closed and that all services should cease until it had been reconsecrated. The tabernacle with the host was carried out of the building; all the candles were extinguished, together with the perpetual light before the reserved sacrament; all the altars were covered, and the huge building was left silent, empty and unused for twenty four hours. On the following day the translation of the relics, after the right of the Roman pontifical, took place, and the archbishop of Milan, attended by the whole chapter and a great crowd of citizens, reconsecrated the cathedral.

The Railroad Commission.

Thomasville Times.

Under the old regime, it was not uncommon, during the cotton season, for a fight to take place at Bainbridge over freights. The A. and G., on more than one occasion, hauled cotton from Bainbridge to Savannah at $1 per bale. They were, at the same time, charging Thomasville—a shorter haul—$4 per bale. Now this is just what the people of this section are fighting. And they will continue to fight it. We notice that in almost every town, where there was sharp competition before the commission was constituted, there is a strong feeling against it; and that in most places—such as Thomasville—where there was no competition, the feeling is in favor of the commission. And this is perfectly natural; we do not blame any one for taking a position which will best inure to the interests of their town. But this is just exactly what we are doing for Thomasville. It is to her interest to have a railway commission, which shall in the future prevent her being discriminated against. And there are hundreds of other towns in Georgia in precisely the same category. The towns which had competition and which are now fighting the commission, are in the minority and they will find it out. Just as we have on a number of occasions stated before, the people of this section while demanding protection from a commission to the extent indicated, do not wish to see any injustice done the roads of the state. There is no injustice in requiring them to maintain uniform rates according to distance. The people are in favor of the railroad law. While wanting, and demanding protection, at the hands of such a law, they do not wish it to the injury of the roads. They would like to see the owners of every railroad in the state making a fair profit, over and above their expenses and contingencies, on the amount of capital invested. ... is a misnomer. The ... railroad ... people in this section are in favor of Mr. Plant and his associates, being allowed by the railway commission of Georgia, a schedule of rates which shall insure to them fair remuneration for their outlay. And, if it should be shown that this, or any future commission should forget their oaths and solemn obligations, by failing to give to this, or any other road, a fair and equitable rate, then they will be ready to file "a colossal bill of complaint" against such body.

Money Problems.

Philadelphia Press.

Yesterday United States four per cents and British consols sold at the highest price ever known for either security. Consols rose in London to 101¾, and four per cents sold in New York at 116¾. Even at this price the four per cents yield their holder more than three per cent, and they have yet two per cent higher to go before the income from them will be less than three per cent. Political economists have a pretty knotty problem to solve when they undertake to explain why money is so cheap all over the world, with abundant crops, busy manufactures and the vigorous prosecution of new enterprises that require millions of money. It is possible that some reason may be found in the fact that the past three years of prosperity the destruction by wars and pestilence has been reduced to a minimum.

Philadelphia Times.

The secretary of the treasury ought to be thinking now about his maturing fives. It is evident that the sixes will all be paid or that their holders will accept a reduction of interest to three and a half. This is a very successful operation for the beginning of Mr. Windom's administration, but he should hesitate before following it up by an effort to place the fives at the same rate. The sixes have lately been selling at about three per cent premium, which is more than the accrued interest, and if it indicates anything it is evidence of the power of the government to borrow at less than three and a half. It would be of great assistance to congress in the refunding legislation of next winter if the secretary should try to borrow at three per cent. He could at least thus develop the feeling of capitalists and the banks towards the lower rate.

A Hopeful Sign.

Boston Traveller.

Of all the signs of a better state of things in the south we have seen nothing more promising than a letter sent to Hon. T. W. Bicknell, of this city, by Hon W. A. Courtney, mayor of Charleston, South Carolina, ordering for the teachers of that city $42 worth of his educational journals, Education and Journal of Education. Accompanying the check was the letter referred to, containing this sentence: "The war and its disastrous consequences have set us back more than a generation in our state, and now that we begin to feel the improvement in our affairs, we are making an effort to elevate our schools." In an experience of six years' publishing of these various journals, Mr. Bicknell says, this is the first time he has ever known the mayor of any city, north or south, to take such a lively interest in schools and the improvement of the teaching force. This, with many similar things occurring in the leading southern cities, shows that there is a well founded purpose to put that section of our country on an educational footing equal to anything in the north. Upon this promising state of affairs we are to be congratulated, but none so much as the city that has a mayor who gives his time and attention personally to the improvement of the school system. Let us put Charleston in the front rank in this regard.

Latest About the English Beauties.

Boston Transcript.

A Philadelphian who moved in the highest society last season in England says that Mrs. Langtry has irredeemably fallen from her aspiring pedestal. Society has tolerated her long enough. She would have been cut months ago but for the slavish deference paid to all whom H. R. H. delights to honor. "The Jersey Lily," it is asserted, appealed to that illustrious personage to pay her debts, but the prince has difficulty in meeting his own responsibilities, and so declined. The fair lady's indiscretions became very glaring of late, and the bailiff's men made her house their home, and the final smash has surfeited the beau monde. Her beauty is more the accident of royal favor than an actual fact. The lower portion of her face is by no means prepossessing, the chin being long and the mouth large, and she has also a way of carrying her head bent on her breast, which, while enabling her to make play with her certainly beautiful eyes, gives her a particularly ungraceful carriage. Mrs. Cornwallis West is a woman of quite a different order, though in the opinion of our country man, her claims to any sisterhood with Venus are likewise meagre. She is, however, as Cæsar's wife should be, and her husband is a man of very good family and large means.

Sentimentalism Illustrated.

Norristown Herald.

When a red handed—"red-handed" is the proper term, we believe—when a red-handed murderer is sentenced to be hung, there is always a great effort made by certain parties to save his neck from the gallows; and women smother him with bouquets, as if he was a southern congressman, and mingle their tears with his. He would mingle them if he wasn't too hardened to weep. And when a person attempts to commit suicide in public he is looked upon and placed under surveillance, and perhaps fined. But Miss Deuell of Iowa City starved herself to death without any extraordinary efforts being made to save her life. If she had been guilty of a terrible crime, some means for her restoration might have been found to frustrate her act of self-destruction.

Secret Lessons.

New York Tribune.

President Garfield is credited with saying recently: "I think the public will demand after awhile that the senate sit in open session in discussing the nomination of candidates for office. They need go on and close the doors, and it is in the power of a senator to say things about a man's character he would never think of uttering in public session. The cause of justice and morals demands they should consider the nominations under the public eye and ear." This may be the death knell to senatorial bosses, and to that sacred sham known as senatorial courtesy.

The Good Work Begun.

Louisville Commercial.

The Georgia newspapers are doing good work in promoting the plans for securing immigrants, and they advise the railroad companies to take an active part in the matter of having eating houses along the routes, at which the immigrants can get food that suits them. THE CONSTITUTION urges that a suitable house be built at Atlanta for the reception of the immigrants, and have a fit man to manage it. The good work is fairly started.

A Hard Conundrum.

New York World.

If a man should steal say $5,000,000 from the government in mail contracts and spend say $1,000,000 of his stealings in carrying Indiana for the republican party, should that be accounted to him for righteousness? This conundrum seems to address itself especially to the president and vice president of these United States.

Give the Money to the Factories.

Dalton Argus.

The question as to which is the safest depository—state or national banks—is now being agitated in Georgia. The best depository for capital in this state is stock in some factory or foundry. As a rule the people of Georgia are too poor to give their money to banks of any kind for a surplus capital.

The Silly Tories.

New York Star.

Parliament has fallen into a silly muddle over the Bradlaugh case. First, he was refused his seat because he would not take the oath. Now he is refused his seat because he will take the oath. Does parliament object to Bradlaugh's conversion? Does it forbid him to become a Christian?

CELERY

As a Remedy for Nervous Diseases.

WHAT THE MEDICAL PROFESSION SAY ABOUT IT,

—AND—

The Good Results Attending Its Use

—IN—

Headache, Neuralgia, Nervousness, Indigestion, Sleeplessness and Paralysis.

CELERY has come into public notice within the last few years as a nervine, but scientific experiments and experience have proved beyond a doubt that it controls nervous irritation and periodic nervous and sick headaches to a marked degree

Brown-Sequard says that Celery contains more nerve food than any other vegetable or substance found in nature. Celery was first discovered and used as a nervine by French physicians about 1867. But a combination of the EXTRACT OF CELERY AND CHAMOMILE, which has been but recently introduced to the profession and the public by Dr. C. W. Benson, has produced such marvellous results in curing nervousness and headaches, and especially nervous and sick headaches, neuralgia, paralysis, indigestion and sleeplessness, that it has excited public attention and newspaper comments, and many physicians have tested the merits of this preparation with the best results, as quoted below from a few:

WHAT PHYSICIANS SAY.

"Dr Benson's preparation of Celery and Chamomile for nervous diseases is the most important addition made to the materia medica in the last quarter of century."—Dr. J. W. J. Englar, of Baltimore.

"These Pills are invaluable in nervous diseases."—Dr. Hammond, of New York.

"Dr. Benson's Pills are worth their weight in gold in nervous and sick headache."—Dr. A. H. Schlichter, of Baltimore.

"Dr. Benson's Pills for the cure of neuralgia are a success."—Dr. G. P. Holman, of Christiansburg, Va.

These Pills are a special preparation, only for the cure of special diseases, as named, and for these diseases they are worthy of a trial by all intelligent sufferers. They are prepared expressly to cure sick headache, nervous headache, dyspeptic headache, neuralgia, nervousness, paralysis, sleeplessness and indigestion, and will cure any case. Price 50 cents, postage free. Sold by all druggists. Depot, 106 North Eutaw st., Baltimore

He never forgave the prince for the sharp letter sent him while he was foreign minister requiring him to submit to the queen all dispatches that left the foreign office, and threatening him with dismissal if he neglected this command. He did neglect it, and Lord Russell, the prime minister, was forced to drop him He had his revenge, but at the expense of the liberal party, for the queen was compelled to make the jaunty and independent Irishman prime minister, and she has detested the name of liberal ever since.

—Governor Foster's hard luck in running up against Hayes, just as he had gotten everything ready to run unanimously for re-election in Ohio, is variously commented upon by the press of that state, the general drift of opinion being that the governor will have a good deal more trouble from the democrats in being re-elected than he will have from the Hayes tea and water movement for a gubernatorial nomination. However, if the worst comes to the worst, McLean says that Foster can revert to the calico business.

DISINFECTANT,
A NEW AND WONDERFUL INVENTION.
AN EFFECTIVE, CERTAIN AND SIMPLE MEANS OF Destroying Bed Bugs, Cockroaches, Ants, Moths and Parasites of all kinds.

The apparatus for generating the steam is an ordinary nursery lamp, holding half a pint of the Medicated Fluid with a tube at the top to direct the Medicated Steam upon any point infested with insects. It is heated with a small spirit lamp beneath the boiler. For Dwellings, Hotels, Steam Ships, Restaurants, etc., nothing ever discovered equals this appliance. It is harmless to human life; is inexpensive and simple in its use. While a most potent means for destroying vermin, it is the best disinfectant known and may be most effectually used to prevent the spread of contagious diseases, such as Yellow Fever, Scarlet Fever, Typhoid Fever, Diptheria, Small Pox, &c. One trial is the best proof of the great advantages of this over all other appliances. For sale by Druggists and General Dealers.

THE STATE DEPOSITORY LAW.

A Measure of Glaring Impolicy and the Cause of the Recent Bank Failures—A Fair and Thorough Discussion of an Important Matter.

Correspondence Chronicle and Constitutionalist.

ATLANTA, GA., April 18, 1881.—The recent bank failures of two state depositories are exciting a discussion that will prove profitable. It is unfortunate that the men who have been chronic grumblers have been disposed to besmirch state officials But these things are corrected by the truth

The fact is, that the depository law is a blunder and is responsible for all of the trouble. It has been fairly and vigilantly administered, but it is radically improper and should never have been passed. When the measure was introduced the committee called upon the then state treasurer, Col. John W. Renfroe, for his views upon it. That official, who is a financier of uncommon sagacity, and administered his office with a perfection of skill and system that have never been equalled, made the following reply, which is taken from the official correspondence of the state treasurer's office. This remarkable response, put in one short condensation of experience and wisdom every one of the many fatal objections to the bill, and should have killed it.

State of Georgia, Treasury department, Atlanta, Georgia, July 5, 1879. ——, House of Representatives: Dear Sir—In reference to your bill creating state depositories, I would respectfully suggest the following considerations:

The law for the collection and paying into the treasury the taxes should be as simple as possible, consistent with safety and dispatch. The proposed law does not, in my opinion tend to accomplish this object. The process proposed is more circuitous and hazardous. It multiplies the number who handle the taxes, and is therefore objectionable, as it is more circuitous and hazardous. The tax collectors, under the present law, give bond and security, and the money collected by them is transmitted directly to the treasury, and without expense to the state. Under the change made by this bill the money goes into second hands before it reaches the treasury, and a second bond and security is given. It would seem to be better that the state be exposed to as few chances of loss and default as possible. The collectors may now make deposits in banks, and their own protection against loss, and the protection of their securities, will stimulate them to use every precaution, and if they deposit at all, to select the banks which are most convenient and safest. This they can do with as just a discrimination as can be done by any officer of the state department. The safest and simplest process is for the tax collectors to transmit directly to the treasury.

Again, accounts would have to be opened with the banks as well as with the tax collectors, thus increasing labor and complicating settlements. The present system is well understood throughout the state, and to change it would surely give trouble to this and the comptroller's department. I must confess I cannot see any benefit to be derived from the proposed law.

The amendments I suggest (marked on the bill) I think proper if the bill should be passed, but even with these, it is objectionable, or rather I can see no advantage in it over the present system. The more I study it the more trouble I see in it for this department. Very truly,

[Signed] J. W. RENFROE,
Treasurer.

The law simply relieves the treasurer from responsibility for the state funds, and scatters them about among a dozen banks that give only a $50,000 bond to cover double the amount of deposits.

The bank of Rome and Citizens' bank both made impregnable returns of solvency under oath, and there is no power to go behind the returns. And when the law designates the depository the treasurer is relieved from the responsibility that should belong to him alone and for which he is put under heavy bond.

Before the depository law, the treasurer deposited the state's funds in five Atlanta banks, thus dividing the risk among a number of banks under his own eye. When the depository law was passed, he was compelled to withdraw the funds from the four other banks and concentrate upon the selected depository. This is why so large a deposit of $330,000 accumulated in the Citizens' bank. It was simply carrying out the law. When the deposit was reduced over $200,000 in three months, the Citizens' bank had of course to utilize its resources, and the very withdrawal of the Atlanta city bonds from the state and the substitution of personal security was for the state's benefit, as the proceeds of the bonds were used to pay the state's deposits so heavily called for, and thus went straight into the state treasury, and the additional personal securing of the new bond gave the state so much more surety for its money.

Once, several years ago, a bank with $160,000 of state's money got a little shaky, or was reported to be so, and the matter was wisely managed as not only to save the state, but the bank. If an immediate draft had been made for the whole amount the bank would have gone up. But upon notice of the purpose to withdraw the money the bank made a showing of its affairs, and demonstrated its ability to pay if not forced to the wall. As its discounts became due and were collected the money was paid over to the state. Upon one occasion the bank was suddenly pressed by other parties, but the treasurer promptly advanced the sum necessary to bridge over, and thus by cool, skillful management and the giving of a little time every dollar was saved to the state. It took several months to do it, but trouble was avoided.

Either the treasurer must be allowed under the watching of the governor to manage matters as before the passage of the depository law, or a proper vault should be provided and the state's money put there and properly guarded. And, furthermore, let all the indecent besmirchment of the state's officers cease for matters that no human vigilance could guard against, and which grow out of inherent imperfections in a law that not even a capable and honest enforcement can remedy.

FACT.

Gray Hairs are Honorable but their premature appearance is annoying. Parker's Hair Balsam is popular for cleanliness and promptly restoring the youthful color.

as to the best methods and remedies, for the cure of constipation and disordered liver and kidneys. But those that have used Kidney-Wort, agree that it is by far the best medicine known. Its action is prompt, thorough and lasting. Don't take pills and other mercurials that poison the system, but by using Kidney-Wort restore the natural action of all the organs.—New Covenant.

IN MEMORIAM.

Our Lost Darlings, Isabel and "Ste Tom" Van Epps.

An angel has been with us; silently he came and gently has he left us. This we know, though we did not hear the softest flutter as he winged his heavenward flight, nor did we see through our tears the radiance of light shed from his "glory-beaming face." But we know it by the sunshine which has fled, and the silence unspeakable which lingers in our hearts. A jewel was wanted for the diadem of heaven—a cherub's voice wanted to swell the angelic chorus. And so God's messenger came, to seek for the fairest child of earth. Could not our loving hearts have told where that quest would end? Can we wonder the choice was so quickly made? Where, in all the sunny climes of earth, could there be found so fitting a type of lovely childish beauty and grace as in little "Ste Tom" Van Epps? In him was blended all that was lovely, winning and sweet. A halo seemed ever shimmering in his golden curls, and surely all the azure of heaven was mirrored in those sweet blue eyes, shaded by their wondrous lashes.

It was meet that he should be gently clasped in an angel's arms, and tenderly laid on the Savior's breast. And well we know who came, with outstretched arms, to welcome him there—all the beauty and radiance of heaven in her face. Little Isabel has not waited long. Only a little while since she, too, crossed the "Jasper Sea." Only a little while has she sang with her golden harp. Only four short months has she lingered near the pearly gates, watching and waiting for the little brother she loved so well.

Now with clasped hands will they wander through the sweet gardens of Paradise. Ah, little loved ones, dear is your memory to us! Sweet as the fragrance of vanished flowers! Together we have ever cherished you, like two lovely buds upon the self same stem. "On the margin of celestial streams alone those simples grow, which shall cure the heart-ache." And there they shall linger ever, free from all pain or care; hand in hand, in a loving clasp; with the smile of God upon them; the radiance of angels surrounding them—lovely and beautiful—glorified forever!

Quitman County, Ga.
For the benefit of all those who are interested in raising Fowls, I take pleasure in recommending Shoenfeld's Medicated Stock Feed. I had several chickens with cholera, and by the use of this wonderful article, given according to directions, all of them got well and are now in a healthy condition. WM. TENNILLE,
I fully concur in the above.
S. T. RICE.

Without any solicitation on my part, I take pleasure in stating that I have used your Medicated Feed on a very poor cow of mine that has been under the weather for some time, with the best results. She is now improving very fast in looks, flesh and milk, and the milk is much increased in quantity and better in quality; and I can say without any hesitation, that there is nothing better, in my opinion, for improving the condition of cows, in flesh and milk, than Shoenfeld's Medicated Feed.
Yours respectfully,
WM. H. EAGER,
Postmaster, Selma, Ala.

I have used Shoenfeld's Medicated Feed for chickens and have found it of great value, not only in keeping the poultry in health, but in curing several of those quite bad off with the cholera. I can recommend it for such purpose.
J. C. DAVIS,
Rector St. James' Church, Eufaula, Ala.

York, Houston County, Ga.
I have been using Shoenfeld's Stock Feed for cholera in my hogs and chickens, which I had been losing rapidly for several weeks. I have not lost one since I began to give it, and will say it is the best thing I ever saw for this disease. It will cure cholera. I have never known any other that would. My neighbors use it and will say the same thing about it. Yours respectfully, L. A. THOMAS.

Eufaula, Ala., February 15, 1879.
This is to certify that I have full knowledge of the ingredients in Mr. Shoenfeld's Stock Feed, and am satisfied that it is a happy and safe combination for all purposes for which it is recommended. It contains no hurtful element. Good results will always follow when used according to directions. This I know from experience in its use among my own stock.
W. H. THORNTON, M.D.

Selma, Ala., March 15, 1879.
We take pleasure in certifying to the certificate of Dr. W. H. Thornton.
W. H. JOHNSTON, M.D.
BENJ. H. RIGGS, M.D.,
And Secretary of Medical Association of Alabama.

I take pleasure in certifying, at your request, to the value of the Medicated Stock Feed. I have tried for several months to improve my claybank horse. He was thin his hair was long and rough, and he would not eat well, shed off or fatten. With one sack of your Stock Feed he has shed his hair, eats well, has fattened up, and looks now like a new horse.

As he has been on the streets almost every day for more than a year, hundreds of people in this city can verify the statements as to the change in his condition. I know of nothing better for improving poor or unhealthy stock than this Feed.
C. J. CLARKE, M.D.

Having noticed an advertisement in the Telegraph and Messenger in regard to a Stock Feed which you are manufacturing, I concluded I would try it on a horse which had the swinney and was also hide bound. He refused to eat anything and was almost a shadow.

I got a package of the Stock Feed and have been giving it to the animal about three weeks, and I can truly say the Stock Feed has far exceeded my expectations. as he is now good looking as any horse in Bibb county. I do not believe there is anything in the market to compare to it.
Respectfully, Mrs. M. O'DONNELL.

I have such confidence in your Stock Feed that I will add my testimony to the many others you have. I gave some to my hogs which had refused to eat, and not knowing what disease they had, I hardly knew what to do to save them. It was a disease similar to cholera, but neither my neighbors nor myself had ever seen a disease exactly like it, but knew it was not the cholera, although it was as bad or worse. I got a package of the Stock Feed, and by holding the hogs, I got about three or four doses in them, and in less than two days, they commenced eating, and in a week, were perfectly well. This is what I know to be so. Yours truly,
B. A. JOHNSON.

I take the liberty to announce to the public in general that on the 21st of April last, I bought a cow and calf of Mr. D. T. Pinkston, Sr. When I received the same she would not eat any slops nor give any milk. I intended offering the same to the butcher, but was advised by some friend to purchase a sack of Shoenfeld's Medicated Stock Feed, which I am using now with the best result. My cow will eat all slops and gives 1½ gallons of milk, with a good prospect of increasing. Respectfully,
E. KUTTNER.

This is to certify that I have used Mr. L. Shoenfeld's Medicated Stock Feed on cows and horses, and it is the best I have ever used. It is what he recommends it to be.
WILLIAM SMITHA.

Mr. L. Shoenfeld—I have used your Medicated Stock Feed with very good results. Think it a very good thing. Yours truly,

THE GREAT AND
APPETIZER---SURE CURE
For COUGHS, COLDS, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, CONSUMPTION, and all Diseases of the THROAT and LUNGS.

The most acceptable preparation in the known world. By adding to TOLU ROCK and RYE a little Lemon Juice, you have an excellent Appetizer and Tonic, for general family use. The immense and increasing sales and the numerous testimonials received daily are the best evidence of its virtues and popularity.
Put up in QUART size Bottle, giving MORE for the money than any article in the market.

CAUTION.--- DON'T BE DECEIVED by unprincipled dealers who try to palm off upon you common Rock and Rye in place of our TOLU ROCK and RYE, which is the only MEDICATED article made, the Genuine having a Government Stamp on each bottle.

Extract from Report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.
TREASURY DEPARTMENT, OFFICE OF INTERNAL REVENUE,
WASHINGTON, D. C., January 26th, 1880.
Messrs. LAWRENCE & MARTIN, 111 Madison Street Chicago, Ill.:
GENTLEMEN: This compound, in the opinion of this office, would have a sufficient quantity of the BALSAM OF TOLU to give it all the advantages ascribed in this article in pectoral complaints, while the whisky and syrup constitute an emulsion rendering it an agreeable remedy to the patient. Compounded according to the formula, it may properly be classed as a medicinal preparation under the provisions of U. S. Revised Statutes, and when so stamped, may be sold by Druggists, Apothecaries and Other Persons without rendering them liable to pay special tax as liquor dealers.
Yours Respectfully, (Signed) GREEN B. RAUM, Commissioner.

The Weather.

The Signal Service Bureau report indicates for Georgia to-day, partly cloudy weather, occasional rain, stationary barometer, stationary or lower temperature, southeasterly shifting to northerly winds.

The chief signal officer at Washington furnishes the following special bulletin:

The indications are that partly cloudy or cloudy weather, with occasional rain, will prevail in the New England, middle Atlantic states and lower lake region to-day, followed by clearing weather in the latter two districts by to-night, and in the first district during to-morrow. The Mississippi river will probably continue to rise below St. Louis and fall at St. Paul. The Missouri will probably continue to rise below and fall above Leavenworth.

Be Careful of Your Eyes,

A pair of spectacles should never be purchased from any person who is not thoroughly acquainted with the anatomy, physiology and diseases of the human eye, laws of light, and the science of optics. Yet it is strictly true, that a full knowledge of the above, combined with skill and experience, is absolutely necessary to correctly adjust to the eye a pair of spectacles. I find on returning to the city, after a long absence caused by sickness, that many of my customers have been obliged to purchase spectacles of dealers who sell them the same as any merchandise, without knowledge of the human eye, thereby causing serious injury. OLD LEE ONCE MORE.

Kries's Bloodhound Catches a Chicken Thief.

For some time past the residents of western Atlanta have been greatly annoyed with the presence of a successful chicken thief, whose depredations have been frequent. Yesterday morning this purloiner of fowls made an incursion upon George Kries's hen-house and succeeded in getting away with a brace of fine yellow legged chickens, which were George's pride. In a few minutes after the theft was committed it was discovered and its discovery so irritated Mr. Kries that he determined to catch the thief. Bringing out old Lee, his bloodhound, Kries mounted himself and away the two went. After a quick run of three miles the negro was sighted, brought to bay and captured. The chickens though released, were recovered and are again in Mr Kries's hen yard, whilst the negro, who is known as Charles Williams, is in jail.

The Catholic Fair.

This is the last week of the fair, yet the interest is as great as ever. The ladies and young gentlemen have worked zealously and their efforts have been highly satisfactory. The fair will realize not less than $2,000 exclusive of about $1,000 worth of articles which will remain on hand after the fair is ended. The ballots have never lagged in interest and the first to close will be the contest between Colonel Acton and Mr. E I Kendrick for a handsome gold watch, which will close at 10 o'clock to-morrow night. Thursday night the ballot between Messrs Tutwiler and Callahan will close, and on Friday night the contest between Miss Julia Campbell and Katie Bent for a beautiful gold necklace will end. The friends of these contestants should improve the time which lies between now and the closing of the ballots. Many beautiful and useful articles remain to be raffled, among which are quite a number of valuable things. As the fair will close now in a few days, it is time that all who feel an interest in it should call and patronize at least some part of it. The ladies will feel grateful and happy and the most praiseworthy ends of benevolence will be furthered.

Railroad Magnates.

Hon. J. S. Barbour, president of the Virginia Midland and of the North Carolina Midland, and party, are at the Kimball house. They have been on a visit to Augusta, the objective point to which it is proposed to extend the new trunk line from Danville, Va., via Spartanburg, S. C and have come to Atlanta on their way home, expecting to return over the Atlanta and Charlotte Air Line.

A Protracted Meeting.

The pastor and members of the Fifth Baptist church, corner of Fillmore and Bell streets, have determined to have a protracted meeting, commencing Sunday next, and continuing during this week.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Proceedings of the Regular Semi-Monthly Meeting Last Night.

In the council chamber Mayor English called the city council to order last night. There were present Aldermen Beermann, Goodwin and Lowry and Councilmen Pinson and Barnes of the first ward, Knapp and Berkele of the second ward, Beatie and Buchanan of the third ward; Boyd and Johnson of the fourth ward, and Payne and Jones of the fifth ward.

The journal of the last regular meeting of the council was read and approved, as also was the journal of the last session of the aldermanic board.

The balance sheet showed the balances of appropriations on hand to be: Salary of officers, $11,337 46; public buildings and grounds, $1,520 54; streets and bridges, $14,851.70; cemetery, $2,245 25; public schools, $32,829 48; fire companies, $7,500; paupers and relief, $515; contingent, $23,970.23; gas and fixtures, $8,006.82; water works, $10,124.73. Total $133,897.01.

PETITIONS.

By J. C. Wilkins, for permission to erect a wooden building within fire limits. Referred to committee on fire department.

By A. Haas & Bro., for permission to continue the storage of oil in a house on the Air-Line road near the junction with the Georgia railroad.

Upon motion the rules were suspended in order to hear from Mr. Haas in support of the petition. Alderman Goodwin's motion causing a suspension of the ordinance governing this petition until the next meeting, and that the question be referred to committee on fire department, prevailed.

By J. H Russell and others for the opening of Solomon street. Referred to street committee.

By J. C. Bridger and others for the improvement of Fairlie street. Referred to street committee.

By Councilman Beatie for the refunding of $22 50, the amount of taxes paid on property which he considers over-assessed. Referred to tax committee.

By Tom Stafford for a retail liquor license at 15 Ivy street. Referred to police committee.

By A. A. Shields for return of a fine of $25 imposed by the recorder. Tabled.

The finance pay-roll for the month ending April 28, 1881, was: Salaries $791 62, public buildings and grounds $6 10, streets and bridges $1,323 66, cemetery $96 50, public schools $4,000, paupers and relief $94 75, lamps, gas, etc. $253 01, police $2 738 74, water works $1,840 14, contingent $436 21, public buildings and grounds $3; total, $11,583.75.

REPORTS.

The street committee made a favorable report upon the petition of J. W. Baker for an extension of the culvert across Jones street at the junction of Terry.

The same committee made a like report upon a petition for a bridge across Proctor creek at Simpson street at a cost not exceeding $400.

The same committee made a similar report upon a petition for improvements on Forest avenue, provided the work be done by the county chain gang

The resolution delegating to the mayor the power to appoint a secret detective, which had been referred to the police committee, was taken up for consideration the committee having made a favorable report thereupon.

Councilman Knapp moved to amend the resolution by giving the appointment of the contemplated detective to the board of police commissioners, and supported his motion with a brief review of the law governing the making of city officials.

Councilman Beatie supported the resolution as first introduced, and claimed Councilman Knapp's amendment was not an amendment but a substitute.

Councilman Knapp then offered his "amendment" as a substitute, and asked for a vote Councilman Beatie claimed that the substitute could not be considered as it was offered instead of the report of the committee on police, and that no action could be taken on substitute until that report had been adopted or rejected. He closed his remarks by asking for a vote upon the adoption of the report. Here the yeas and nays were called, ordered and resulted: Yeas—Barnes, Pinson, Buchanan, Beatie, Boyd and Payne—6 Nays—Berkele, Knapp, Johnson and Jones—4. So the report was adopted.

The committee on sewers and drains submitted reports upon several petitions, which reports were adopted.

The committee upon appropriations submitted a report which was discussed, altered and amended until the estimates were made as follows:

Real estate	$220,827 00
Personal	100,000 00
Street tax	8 5 0 00
Water works	27,000 00
Commission on sales	4,000 00
Retail license	240,000 00
Exhibition	500 00
Drayage	2,000 00
Business license	25,000 00
Burial lots	2,500 00
Fine and forfeiture	7,000 00
Miscellaneous	15,000 00
Total	$434,327 00

The consideration of the disbursements was postponed for a future consideration.

The question of a city bookkeeper was then agitated but action deferred until the next meeting.

Several resolutions relative to laying sidewalks and curbs and extending the water mains were adopted.

The following ordinance by Alderman Beermann was offered and after a third reading adopted: Be it ordained by the mayor and general council that the fire limits be extended as follows to-wit: From Peters street south along Forsyth to Garnett street, thence east along Garnett street to Loyd street, thence north along Loyd street to Peters street.

Be it further ordained, that all ordinances in conflict with the foregoing ordinance of extension be and the same are hereby repealed.

Upon motion council adjourned until Monday night next, when the further consideration of the appropriations will be had.

Professor Macallister.

Professor Macallister, "the great wizard of the world," began a week's engagement at DeGive's opera house last night, and was greeted by a very fair audience. The feats were very cleverly done and created much wonder and merriment among the audience. A complete change of programme is promised for each evening of the week. Most of the prizes which were distributed last night were quite valuable. One lady received a nice tea sett of over 50 pieces, while Mr. W. T. Waters, of 26 West Baker street, won the principal cash prize—which was $10. The principal prize for this evening will be fifteen dollars in cash.

The Library Picnic.

Friday next is the day designated for the Young Men's library picnic, which will be had in that beautiful grove just this side of Marietta. The gentlemen having the details in charge have about perfected all arrangements, and the most enjoyable picnic of the season will in all probability be the one by the Y. M. L. association. The post band has been secured and a dancing platform erected and every other pleasure provided for.

FULTON COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

The Action of the Regular Meeting Yesterday.

A meeting of the commissioners of roads and revenues was held in the city council chamber yesterday. A full board was in attendance, Judge S. B. Hoyt, chairman, presiding.

The first business which came before the board was a discussion of the county paupers, and it was determined that in future all paupers who derive any benefits from the county will have to do so as inmates of the county almshouse, and no support will be given to any other persons than the inmates of the almshouse.

The next matter was a petition of a number of citizens of Black Hall district, protesting against the recent division of that district, and asking that the new district be abolished. Final action on the petition was postponed to the next regular meeting.

Petition of citizens for a bridge across Camp's creek at the old Sewell ford on the Campbellton road. A committee composed of Superintendent Kries and Messrs. Gramling and Hunnicutt, with Chairman Hoyt, was appointed to visit the place where the bridge is asked for on Thursday next and make a report to the board.

Petition of citizens of Fulton and DeKalb counties for a thirty foot road commencing at New Hope church and running north to the Flat Shoals road. Referred to the road commissioners with power to report.

Petition for bridge across Long Island creek on Crook's place on the Power's Ferry road in Oak Grove district. Referred to road commissioners with request for a report.

The fourth Saturday in this month was recommended by the commission as a day for the road commissioners to meet and discuss matters which are of general interest to them and to recommend such legislation as will be beneficial ot the road interests of the county.

William Plasters was in attendance and addressed the commission on the subject of the Collier bridge, urging the importance of its early completion. Engineer Clayton was employed to make specifications for a wooden bridge ten feet longer than the one formerly in use and to report the same to the clerk of the commission, at which time the commission will be called together and steps taken at once to put the bridge up.

The report of Engineer Corput on the condition of the work of Plasters bridge was received. The report pronounced the rock work unfit to support the bridge, and recommended that the work be taken down and rebuilt. A resolution was passed instructing the clerk to notify the contractor that the work must be done in accordance with the contract or it would not be received.

In making his report for the period beginning April 16 and ending May 1, Superintendent Kries, of the county chain gang, asked for new carts and wagons, as the old ones are in a very bad condition. Commissioners Hunnicutt and Gramling were appointed a committee to examine into the matter, with power to act. The report of the superintendent made the following exhibit:

Number of prisoners, April 16, 37; received from April 16 to May 1, 12; discharged from April 16 to May 1, 4; died, 1; escapes, 1; number on hand May 1, 47; number mules, 7; expenditures from April 16 to May 1, $314.78.

The report of the superintendent of the county almshouse made the following exhibit:

Number inmates April 1, 53; number admitted during April, 9; died, 3; discharged, 3; total inmates May 1, 56; expenditures for the month, including salary, $210.52.

Numerous bills were examined and ordered paid.

The duties of the janitor were defined.

Judge Hoyt was authorized to receive proposals for furnishing the county with pauper coffins.

The commission adjourned to meet to-day at 9 a. m.

THE ATLANTA POLICE

Attired in Their New-Found Rigging.

At half-past twelve o'clock yesterday the Atlanta police force, attired in their new uniforms underwent an inspection in the recorder's court room at police headquarters. In addition to Police Commissioners Fox, Hancock and Thrower, the inspectors, there were present his honor, Mayor English, and Recorder Milledge.

At the command of Chief Anderson, the evening watch, Captains Connolly and Aldridge commanding, formed upon each side of the room and after as earching inspection by the chief's eagle eye, passed in review before the commissioners, mayor and recorder, who expressed a thorough satisfaction at their appearance. This watch then answered to roll-call and were assigned to duty. Then the morning watch, Captains Starnes and Bagby, were subjected to the same close scrutiny, given the same words of encouragement and dismissed, after which the supernumeraries were also inspected.

In their new uniforms Atlanta's forty policemen present a creditable, in fact a fine military appearance. The suits, which are of a dark blue color, were made by A. & S. Rosenfeld, of this city. The goods is Middlesex yacht cloth, weighing fourteen and one-half ounces to the yard, and is warranted not to rip, tear or fade. The patrolmen wear a single breasted blouse with four buttons, and the officers a double breasted coat with similar buttons; with this exception the clothing is alike. The suits are all handsome, and their perfect fit speaks volumes for the Messrs. Rosenfeld. In fact, this is the best and biggest advertisement this famous clothing house has ever had.

The uniforms are complete when mention is made of the belt and hat. The hat is a high stiff, regulation hat, such as is worn by the New York police. Upon the front is the number of the patrolman by which he is known to the chief. This number is surrounded by a wreath, making the hats the cop's pride.

Chief Anderson has divided the city into two police districts, known as north and south Atlanta. In each district there are two watches, the morning and the evening watch, each having two captains.

Captain Starnes is in command of the morning watch in the first district, south Atlanta, and has eight men to guard that section of the city, which is composed of the first, second and third wards. In the first ward Patrolmen Parish, White, Germany and Baird are located, while Patrolmen Dennard, Steerman, Menkin and Moon are in the second and third wards.

In the second district, Capt. Bagby has assigned Patrolmen Barnes, McEwen, Norman and Moss to the fourth ward, and Patrolmen Glower, Sheridan Foute and Lawson to the fifth ward.

The evening watch is officered by Captains Aldridge and Connolly, Captain Connolly having charge of south Atlanta. In the first ward he has placed Patrolmen Couch, Lynch, Thompson and Weaver, and in the second and third wards Patrolmen Lackey, Manly, Russell and Wooding.

In north Atlanta Captain Aldridge has assigned Patrolmen Veal, Spier, Crim and Brenning to the fourth ward, and Patrolmen Rapp, Mercer, Joyner and Langston to the fifth ward.

This location will be observed during the present month, when the force will be changed about and made to occupy other wards.

Chief Anderson knows no member of the force by his name, but by his number, so when you wish to make complaint to him, designate the number and not the name.

Previous to the inspection, the board of commissioners held a meeting and placed the name of William Flynn, the well-known ex-superintendent of the county chain-gang, on the supernumerary list.

A SUDDEN DEATH,

At Which Coroner Hillburn Made His Appearance.

Early yesterday morning Coroner Hillburn was notified of a sudden death that occurred Sunday night last in an old log hut located on a hillside near Ponce de Leon springs. Summoning a jury of inquest, and accompanied by Dr. Boring, the county physician, he at once repaired to the place for the purpose of inquiring into the cause of the death.

In the house there resided Kate Anderson and Rhoda Anderson, two associates of the dead woman, whose name was Mary Ashley, and from these two was gathered all the evidence adduced at the inquest.

Their testimony established the fact that Mary Ashley had been troubled with heart disease for some time and that about 9 o'clock Sunday night last she was suddenly seized with an intense pain in the region of the heart, which grew more severe until the woman died.

At the request of the coroner, Dr. Boring made a post mortem examination. The left lung was found to have almost entirely disappeared and the heart was increased to twice its normal size.

After hearing the opinion of the physician the jury returned a verdict of death by heart disease.

THE CITIZENS' BANK.

The Assignees Return From New York but Decline to Talk.

Messrs. Thomson and Hill, the Citizens' bank assignees and receivers, returned to Atlanta yesterday at noon from New York where they have been for the past week in the interest of the bank and its creditors.

Soon after their return was known they were sought by a CONSTITUTION representative who solicited some information relative to the result of their visit; but beyond the fact that they have ready their report which they will submit to Judge Hillyer, at his pleasure, and which will be kept from the public till scanned by the judge, nothing could be ascertained. One of the assignees indicated that he now considered the bank's condition much better than he had thought previous to his departure for New York, but in what respect he thought it better, declined to say.

Messrs. Moore and Scott, the experts employed by the creditors committee, are yet busily engaged in reviewing the bank books, and until their work is completed no further information beyond the assignees' report to Judge Hillyer can be secured.

Fulton Superior Court.

The superior court of Fulton county met yesterday, his honor, George Hillyer, judge presiding. The following cases were tried:

A BOLD BURGLAR

Caught in Atlanta and Returned to the Scene of His Misdeeds.

Whilst Mr. W. J. Manning and family, whose home is near Marietta, were at church Sunday morning last, their house was entered and burglarized of quite a quantity of clothing, a revolver and a small amount of money.

Immediately after the deed was discovered, which was soon after the return of the family from church, Mr. Manning went to Marietta and notified Mr. Coryell, sheriff of Cobb county, who at once began an effort to capture the burglar.

From Mr. Manning Sheriff Coryell ascertained enough to cause him to suspect Charles Harper, a negro man, as the burglar, and in a short while he learned that Harper had skipped the county. This strengthened his suspicion and caused a pursuit to be made. With little trouble he learned that Harper was coming towards Atlanta when last seen. So boarding the goober train yesterday morning Messrs. Coryell and Manning started for Atlanta. At Iceville they ascertained that their surmise was correct, and that Harper had stayed Sunday night with a negro family near that place, and that he had started early Monday morning for Atlanta.

After reaching town the two Cobb county gentlemen set out to hunt up their burglar, and in a short time were successful. Near the rolling mill they found Harper conversing with several negroes, and calling Patrolman Sheridan, who was fortunately near, caused his arrest.

Harper was then taken to the station-house, where he was searched. In a bundle which he had with him when captured, were found many of the stolen articles.

The Cooking Club Picnic.

The great picnic of the season is to occur Friday next at Iceville. It is the annual picnic of the Young Ladies' cooking club of Atlanta, and promises to be a royal affair. A special train will leave the car shed at 11 o'clock Friday morning, and in thirty minutes will reach Iceville, where the day will be spent.

Wednesday morning next at 10 o'clock there will be a meeting of the members of the club in the Kimball house parlors for the purpose of perfecting all arrangements, and every member is requested to attend.

An Attempt at Suicide.

Saturday a young man named McKinnon attempted suicide near Decatur. He procured three grains of morphine from one druggist and six from another, which he swallowed, and during the day was found on the hill near Swanton's gin in an unconscious condition and was taken to his home near the residence of Mr. Ed Grant, where attention was given him and he revived.

There is quite a Break in the Price of Dress Goods at JOHN KEELY'S.

John Keely

Has completely electrified the city by the entirely novel schedule of prices made on his dress goods and embroidery stocks. Yesterday was one of the best days his house has ever known, the receipts running away up into "big figures." One thing the public can rely upon, when John Keely professes to have a great bargain, or to have made a sweeping reduction in the price of goods in order to clear them out, it is certainly so! He never "fools" customers, never meets them with the remark, "all just sold out" when they come in response to one of his plain, business like advertisements. He never deals in any attempted "jawbreakers" in these notices of what he has to offer. He deals in none of the "cant" of the day, he simply states the fact making is as impressive (of course) as possible, but always avoiding the sensasional.

Such a stock of silks, ladies' ulsters, laces, corsets, ribbons and hosiery and gloves as he has just opened, is hard to find outside of the larger northern cities, and the great beauty of his system is, his prices are right!

Captain John Keely is still a growing power in the dry goods trade, and may he go on and prosper say we.

Read his notice in to day's column.

Dress Goods formerly sold at 35c yard now being sold at 15c yard at JOHN KEELY'S.

Tonics too strongly impregnated with iron and alum are neither desirable nor safe, so be careful. The proportions of iron, aluminium and magnesia in Seven Springs Iron and Alum Mass are so properly adjusted that it is safer and more reliable than any tonic-alterative now in use.

One of the greatest exhibitions of southern enterprise was shown us last week as we entered the extensive establishment of Atlanta's most prided and energetic merchant. It is needless to say that reference is made to the well-known house of John Ryan, which is constantly packed with customers who seek this house to procure the bargains that are daily placed before them. Passing in the door we paused to survey the surroundings. We soon saw that a most powerful stock of new goods in every imaginable style was before us and we do not hesitate to say that the vim and life exhibited in the business of this house places its proprietor among the foremost ranks of American merchants.

Standing beside his magnificent silk department, Mr. Ryan called our attention to a very handsome line of satins and striped silks, which he is offering at fifty cents per yard, and we must acknowledge that the price surprised us, as these goods cannot be duplicated for less than three times this amount.

Not only in this department, but in all classes of goods marvelous bargains can be obtained, and we would say to our readers that it will fully repay them to give this deserving establishment a call before purchasing.

—I will open Monday, May 2, full line Grand Rapid Chamber Suits, which I will ... at very close margin; also, two car... in the celebrated J. W. Davis ... company. ...

W. H. Brotherton

—Self preservation is recognized by all people as a law of the highest obligation, and it is observed in the purchase of goods as well as in other things. We all try to get the best bargains, and this is right. There is no reason why we should go to the store of Mr. A. and pay him a dollar for what can be bought from Mr. B. for fifty cents, unless we wish to do Mr. A. an act of charity. It is well then to get posted as to the place where the best bargains may be secured, and spend our money there. We presume that many have already done this, and decided in favor of W. H. Brotherton, from the crowds that throng his store, and who buy so eagerly and liberally from his superb stock. Such as these need no further proof that he is selling the very best bargains that can be had in the city. But for the benefit of those who are not so well posted, we make the following mention of articles and prices:

Kilt suits for children from 3 to 5 years of age in great variety and quality, from the cheapest to the finest cassimere. Mothers, do not fail to see these goods.

50—2 piece striped cassimere suits for children from 3 to 10 years of age in short and long pants for $2 25

30—2-piece plaid cassimere suits for children from 4 to 10 years of age in short pants, at $3.

50—3 piece plaid and striped cassimere suits for children from four to ten years of age, in long and short pants, at $3 50 to $4

50—3-piece striped and plaid cassimere suits for school boys from 8 to 12 years of age, at $3.

387—3 piece plain, plaid and striped cassimere suits for boys from 11 to 16 years of age, ranging in price at $4 50, $5 25, $5 75, $6 50, $8 20, $11 00 and $14.50.

544—3 piece plaid, striped and plain cassimere suits for youths from 16 to 21 years of age ranging in price at $5, $6 25, $7 50, $9, $11, $15 50 and $17.

Also, coats, pants and vests sold separate from full suits in cassimere, alpaca, linen and grass suits.

Also, 500 children's, boys' youths' and men's linen and grass cloth coats and dusters that are slightly damaged by water, that he is offering at a great sacrifice.

Also, 1,190 plaid, striped and plain cassimere suits for men ranging in price at $2 50, $4, $5 25, $6 75, $7 50, $8 50, $10, $11 25, $12 50, $13 50, $14.75, $15 25, $17 50, $19, $20 and $24.

Also coats, pants and vests, sold separately from full suits from the lowest priced garment manufactured, to the very best, and a great many other articles too numerous to mention. In fact, in this department you can find anything usually kept in a first-class ready-made clothing and gents' furnishing goods establishment.

Ladies' Dress Goods in profusion from Calicoes at 5 cents per yard to exquisitely beautiful Silks and Satins from 50 cents to $6 per yard. This department is unusually full with something to please every taste. He has just received and opened many patterns that are entirely new in this market. They are of every imaginable style and shade of color—beautiful and extremely cheap. The ladies should be sure to examine his goods in this department early the coming week. The weavers and dyers have done their best to please them, and Captain Brotherton has selected the most tasteful and elegant of their productions for Atlanta.

A large assortment of bleached and unbleached domestics are kept on sale at prices ranging from 5 cents per yard up to the very best makes. You can supply yourself with whatever brand you may fancy from this heavy stock. His stock of fancy goods is exquisite. We do not know how to even begin in writing of the innumerable details in this department. The counters and cases set apart for this branch of his business are perfectly splendid, costing more than one thousand dollars They are made of the very best material, put together by master artisans and adapted to the convenience of salesmen and customers. Even a glance within these cases reveals a superb and varied stock of Ribbons, Laces, Embroidery, Insertings, Neckwear, Handkerchiefs, etc., etc., etc. Of course we have not space in which to give the prices of this line of goods, for they are as various as the articles; but we venture to say that no cheaper goods can be found in Atlanta.

Two separate and distinct cases, most ingeniously arranged for the protection and exhibition of a large assortment of Kid Gloves, have been provided, at heavy expense, and these are filled with the most splendid selections from the celebrated manufacturers of the United States and Europe. All sizes and all colors will be furnished at the very lowest prices, for which first class articles in this line can be sold.

We must conclude by the general declaration which an examination of his stock will sustain, that Captain Brotherton's establishment, at the corner of Whitehall and Mitchell streets, is the place to get bargains in any department—the place to buy the most for any given sum of money. Therefore, obey the law of self-protection by spending your money there.

"The Master of the Situation."

Such is said by the knowing ones of the great merchant prince, Mr. John Ryan, who perhaps stands head and shoulders above any of the southern merchants in the dry goods, carpet and shoe business. His wonderful sagacity, shrewd business tact and capital are enough to place him at the head of the commercial south. Why it was only last week that he received a telegram from New York that six thousand pieces of Sandford's celebrated tapestry were to be sold regardless of what they cost to manufacture He at once dispatched a buyer and on last Tuesday he bought such a stock of tapestries and ingrains that we think he will have to engage another store room to put them in as it will be impossible to store them within the room he now has. They were bought and paid for spot cash and at prices that we have never seen equalled. Now you that will want carpets in the next six months would do well to go and see these goods before they are all sold, and our word for it, that they will not go away saying they could not get a bargain, but on the contrary they will forever be thankful that Atlanta has such a man in it that will put goods at prices within the reach of all. Mr. Ryan says that he will, in order to clear this large lot out, sell carpets window shades, oil cloths, etc., on the most accommodating terms, and no one need now have the opportunity of saying that they cannot buy a carpet.

We would suggest the house of John Ryan as the place for parties who wish to buy the best of goods and save money.

State of Georgia, Fulton County—To the Superior Court of said County.

THE PETITION OF THE INTERNATIONAL Cotton Exposition, a corporation duly chartered and organized by this Court, at the present term thereof under and by virtue of the laws of this State, respectfully shows:

That said corporation desires said charter so granted to it be amended as follows, by striking out of said charter the words ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS wherever they occur and inserting in lieu thereof the words TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS, so that the capital stock of said corporation will be increased from one hundred thousand dollars to two hundred thousand dollars.

Petitioner prays that this petition may be recorded by the Clerk of the Superior Court of Fulton county, Georgia, as required by law; that it be published in THE ATLANTA DAILY CONSTITUTION, a public gazette of said county of Fulton, once a week for one month, and that afterwards the Court will pass an order declaring said petition granted and petitioners will ever pray.

JULIUS L. BROWN,
Petitioners' Attorney.

I certify that the above and foregoing is a true extract from the minutes of Fulton Superior Court.

JOHN KEELY
THE LEADER OF LOW PRICES.
Taking cognizance of the fact that the spring season has been so short as to have been scarcely recognized, and being determined not to allow midsummer to come and find him the possessor of a large lot of Spring weight Dress Goods has determined to clear out his entire Dress Goods Stock. This can be accomplished by sweeping reductions in prices. How "sweeping" have been these reductions
LET THE PUBLIC JUDGE
His Dress Goods department has therefore been resolved into one Grand Bargain Counter, over which will be sold
DRESS GOODS AND SILKS
at prices hitherto unheard of. Doubtless some of the Dry Goods fraternity will be angry at this break in the prices, but
JOHN KEELY
Knows just what he is doing!
Read the following list of reductions and REMEMBER
that the reductions apply only to strictly Spring Goods:
A few pieces New Shades in Spring Camel's Hair Goods, 75c and 85c per yard; were $1 00 and $1 25
One small lot all Wool DeBeges, 27½c to 35c per yard, formerly sold at 40c to 50c per yard.
A few Beautiful DeByes, 20c yard, formerly 35c yard.
Elegant Cotton Fabrics, fancy Spring Dress Goods, including Matelasse Goods, Wash Poplins, Poplinettes, etc., 10c yard, reduced from 12 and 15c.
One lot of choice Brocaded Worsteds, 15c yard, goods formerly sold at 25c to 35c yard.
A few choice styles Lace Bunting, 15c yard, goods which brought in March and April 25c to 35c yard
These are Sweeping Reductions! and they will move the Goods!
A few light weight
BLACK CASHMERES!
to be closed out Cheap!
A few more Black Alpacas to be closed out Cheap
A few Beautiful Stripes and Checks in very nice grade goods to be sold Cheap!

NOTICE.
JOHN KEELY
is receiving choice lines of Summer Dress Goods, including the new shades in Nun's Veilings, Tabarca cloths, Muslins, Lawns, Buntings, etc., all of which will be found to be of the most desirable styles and at the very lowest prices.
